The Hanly War (VI): The Intimidator

【Abstract】

In the early stage of Hanly War, Fang used his terrorist tactics to intimidate Han Han's institutional and individual supporters. Nine such incidents have been documented, and the inside information of Fang's terrorist group are also presented.

Notes

When Fang Zhouzi entered into the Hanly War on Jan. 18, 2012, his followers thought that their master could destroy Han Han and finish the War in days, at most in weeks. And many more people were curious to watch the internationally renowned fraud fighter’s unprecedented prowess and mightiness, because before that time, Fang’s so called “fraud busting” activities were mainly in the domain of academic, which, to most people, is rather foreign. However, just after a few days, Fang’s fraudulence and evilness became so obvious to these observers, and they began to express their support for Han Han publicly. Fang, although totally disregarding the fact, evidence, or truth, is extremely sensitive to the opinions expressed by the observers, because according to himself, winning the audience is not only everything, but also the only thing:

[“I have been emphasizing all along that the sole purpose of all debates is to show to the onlookers.”^{\[1\]}](#)

So, to win over the observers, or to stop the observers from supporting his enemies, in this case, the enemy was Han Han, Fang used another tactic: to threaten or intimate any people or institutions who dare to support Han Han. Indeed, during the years-long and still ongoing Hanly War, Fang has instigated his gangsters for countless times to attack hundreds of individuals and institutions. Generally speaking, anyone who spoke for Han Han or questioned Fang’s evildoings would be attacked by Fang and his thugs: the process usually starts from a report by one of Fang’s followers, saying that someone is supporting Han Han or opposing Fang, and Fang would repost the report by making an insidious comment on it, then his water army would flood the target by massive abuses, and/or file secret reports to the institutions to which the person affiliated or the government agencies which they believe have jurisdiction over the matter. Admittedly, Fang does choose his targets: those who are rich and famous, or affiliated with name brand institutions (big companies, highly-ranked organizations, or governmental agencies) were his prime targets. In this part of the Open Letter to Nature, I’ll tell a few such stories.

Caijing Net Became a “Porn Website”

1. “A 2-Bi Net”

On Jan. 19, 2012, the second day after his entering the Hanly War, Fang assembled his microblog posts into his first full-length article against Han Han, entitled “Reply to Han Han’s A Normal Essay”^[2]. The official microblog of Caijing.com.cn, the website of Caijing Magazine, a leading business and financial news magazine in China, made the following comment on Fang’s article:

“【Micro-sigh】 [Although] the rationality is both yours and ours, it probably eventually belongs to the people who have the most energy.....It looks like a grand game of chess over the Spring Festival.....Purely watching and sighing, [it] doesn’t represent any positions and viewpoints.”^[3]

To the above, Fang replied:

“[You’ve] already published a commentary article to support Han Han and called me a 2-Bi youth, yet [you] are hypocritically saying that [your post] doesn’t represent any positions and viewpoints. Do you want other people to call you a 2-Bi net?”^[4]

Ever since the last century, Fang has been repeatedly and proudly claiming that he never uses dirty words^[5], and the facts that some people who do use dirty words in their writings and speeches have been criticized and laughed at by Fang to imply or suggest explicitly that they have moral problems^[6]. However, in the above post, Fang not only used a dirty word, he used it twice.

In contemporary Chinese, especially on the internet, the character 逼 (bī, pronounced like English letter B with a flat tone) means female sexual organ vagina, and it is generally considered one of the dirtiest words, that’s why many people prefer to use English letter B to substitute it if it has to be used. Combined with the character 二 (èr, pronounced like English letter R with a falling tone), which means two, but also means dumb, stubborn, simple-minded. And the word 二逼 (èr bī), which was used twice by Fang in the above post, does have the combined meanings of the two characters. To my knowledge, it was the first time and probably the only time when the word came out Fang’s mouth directly, indicating that Fang was extremely frustrated and desperate at the time, which was noticed by many onlookers^[7].

都已经发表评论文章力挺韩寒骂我是二逼青年了，还假惺惺说什么不代表任何立场与观点，想让人骂你们是二逼网吗？//@财经网：【微叹】道理是你们的，也是我们的，但也许，归根到底将是精力最旺的人的.....看来这将是一盘的大棋.....纯属围观感叹，不代表任何立场与观点👁️

Losing his composure

Fang has been claiming that he never says a dirty word. However, in the above post he used one of the dirtiest words in Chinese dictionary, twice (red colored characters).

The funny thing is, just one day earlier, Fang ridiculed Han Han’s using curse words 他妈的 (tā mā de, “damn it” or “fuck”) and 傻逼 (shǎ bī, “sucker”) in his A Normal Essay, apparently trying to show that he was more educated and civilized than Han Han was^[8]. Therefore, Fang’s gaffe indicated clearly that he was hurt badly by Caijing Net. The question is: Why? The answer is this: Fang has been considering the print media the final judge for the winners and the losers in his fights against his enemies. The words such as “the case has been reported by the news media” have been used frequently by Fang to validate his correctness. For example, on a TV debate held in July 2010, Fang repeatedly using “even the media have reported the case” as his evidence that Mr. Tang Jun had indeed committed a CV fraud^[9]. On Sept. 24, 2010, a few days after Dr. Xiao Chuanguo’s arrest, Fang posted the following message on his Weibo:

“Both the British ‘Independent’ and the French ‘Le Figaro’ have reported Xiao's ‘glorious deeds,’ and I expect the US mainstream media will do so very soon. Xiao Chuanguo is finally recognized internationally this time, [and he is] getting what he has wished the most.”^[10]

And many more^[11].

On the other hand, Caijing Magazine was one of Fangangsters’ strongholds in China’s news media, Fang’s buddy Fang Xuanchang had been its science editor since 2010. Therefore, Fang was extremely scared of the rebellion against him in the Hanly War by the media in general, and by Caijing Net in particular. That’s why the dirty word jumped out his mouth involuntarily.

Indeed, the article published by Caijing Net was probably the first such article criticizing Fang’s fraudulent attack on Han Han. Here is its abstract:

“The Weibo world is usually clauded by an irrational atmosphere; many self-assumed rationalists often become irrational, dreaming, while touching the keyboard, that the orgasm will come soon. [They] always have a natural self-shielding against the rational voices. Han Han’s voice interrupted many people’s dreams in which they were experiencing from self-foreplay to self-orgasm.”^[12]

Here are the two paragraphs mentioning Fang:

“After a few rounds, Maitian apologized; then Fang Zhouzi made a flashy appearance on the scene.

“If we say that in the Maitian era the farce was covered at least by a fig leaf of reasoning, which looked like an episode of super crappy private detective drama, then, after its entering into the Fang Zhouzi era, it degraded into a pure spurt of mouth water. When and how the farce will end depends on how long the main character is able to maintain his vigorous energy.”^[13]

2. “The Exam Pencil Net”

On Jan. 25, 2012, the microblog of Caijing Net posted the link to Han Han’s announcement that he was going to publish the manuscript of Triple Door to prove his innocence, with the following message:

【Han Han: Open and Aboveboard – My Manuscript】 This incident makes me realize that it might be useless just to stay still and take care of your own feathers, because when your feathers get too bright, it could incite some people’s desire to dump shit on you. Thank everyone who hates me, you have made me full of vigor. I’ll fly away from the range of your firearms. If you throw shit upwards, the only place it falls will be your face. What you are going to see is nothing but the brilliance of my feathers. <http://t.cn/z0F1JSz>.”^[14]

By that time, Fang had already found his composure, so he scolded the network in a more educated way:

[“The Exam Pencil Net wants to be buried together with Han Han.”^{\[15\]}](#)

By “Exam Pencil,” Fang meant “2B,” or “èr bī,” meaning “double vaginas,” or dumb asshole.

From that very moment on, Fang began to use his scare tactics, saying that the reason he had not shown the convincing evidence to demonstrate Han Han’s fraud was because that he was digging up a gigantic hole so he could bury Han Han completely. Therefore, anybody, especially institutions and celebrities, who dared to support Han Han publicly, was jumping into the big hole to be buried together with Han Han. Of course it is well known now that the only person who is in the hole is no one else but Fang himself.

The problem to Fang was, his scary tactics didn’t work. Here is the reply by Caijing Net to Fang’s scold:

[“Mr. Fang is a public figure, \[if you want to\] burst foul language, you should do it openly and aboveboard. If you think you are righteous, spell it out. From now on, this Weibo will ignore such queer \[comments\] of yours.”^{\[16\]}](#)

Fang was unable to respond to the above counter-blow, but his gangsters were. A boydreamer, who has no avatar, only 12 followers and 10 posts on his homepage as of today, and has changed his web ID to “Dark Grandpa takes you to fly” (黑爷带你飞) since then, made 19 comments. Here are the first three of them:

[“This junky Weibo, like an idiot, really a junk.”^{\[17\]}](#)

[“This editor, you should be fired.”^{\[18\]}](#)

[“A fucking idiotic editor.”^{\[19\]}](#)

Here is a comment by that katoey Du Lei:

[“Let’s burst foul language in a civilized manner like Caijing Net does.”^{\[20\]}](#)

Of course katoey Du was calling for a group attack on the network. As expected, a Fangangster who calls himself “I resemble me more than me” (我比我更像我) jumped out. As of today, this person has only 70 followers and 42 posts on his homepage; however, he made about 3 dozens of comments on the post by Caijing Net, scolding Han Han, his father, his mother, his wife, and even his daughter. Here are his first two comments:

[“Fuck your mother’s vagina, he didn’t ask for your response.”^{\[21\]}](#)

[“Are you qualified to be a medium? You openly support a little Shanghai bum, do you still have the neutrality of the professionalism?”^{\[22\]}](#)

Fang's water army floods the microblog of Caijing Net

Two members of Fang's water army cursed the editors of Caijing Net and Han Han and his family members after the website showed their support for Han Han and criticized Fang. The post generated a total of 929 comments, the two Fangangsters contributed more than 5% of them directly, and about 14% indirectly, because the fights they provoked.

On Jan. 26, 2012, Caijing Net made the following comment on a pro-Han Han message posted by Mr. Shi Kang (石康), a well-known writer:

“Jealousy is the most dangerous self-mutilation knife. Crazy jealousy can make a person lose their rationality completely, which makes him unaware that his face is getting hateful. Good morning.”^[23]

Knowing they were talking about Fang, that katoey Du Lei jumped out again to Fang's rescue:

“Aren't there any problems that the employees of Caijing Net hijack the official microblog of Caijing Net so blatantly? Doesn't the official microblog represent Caijing Net?”^[24]

Fang, who characteristically bullies the weak and fears the strong, didn't make a comment on Mr. Shi Kang's message, apparently because that Mr. Shi was neither affiliated with any institutions which Fang's gangsters could have him fired from, nor did he has written any academic degree theses which his gangsters could dig up shit from or dump shit on. Also, Mr. Shi looks like a tough guy so he might "stand-up" for himself when being attacked. So, Fang made a comment on Caijing's message indirectly by commenting one of katoey Du Lei's comments:

"I have just asked this Exam Pencil Net whether it wanted to be buried with Han Han together. As expected, it jumps into the hole indeed."^[25]

About one hour later, Fang made another threat to Caijing Net. He first picked up a comment, out of thousands of those on one of his "Han's Studies papers," which said:

"It seems that Fang Zhouzi has sufficient evidence, however he doesn't show them to the public once and for all; rather, he seduces our appetite deliberately and mysteriously, lets us watch his performance."^[26]

And here is Fang's comment:

"If the hole is not dug up slowly, will Caijing Net and a bunch of celebrities jump into it to be buried together with Han Han? Be patient, the good show has yet to come."^[26]

Two months later, Fang admitted that he was really having a hard time during the Chinese New Year period^[27]. So we know that Fang was purposely deceiving the public by saying "the good show has yet to come," and of course it has never come, as of today, three years after being promised. And I bet two thousand pounds and a John Maddox Prize certificate that you will never be able to see the "good show."

Under the attacks by the Fangangsters, Caijing Net issued two statements on Jan. 26, saying the posts on their official Weibo account were authorized and they did represent the Net's position on the public event^[28, 29]. Here is its second one:

"To a public event, this Weibo has its own judgment and bottom line, what [it] reposts or doesn't repost is determined by their public values. This Weibo is not interested in private quarrelings, and will not repost the contents which are hearsays, conjectures of other people's motives. Meanwhile, this Weibo respects and understands the fact that different people have different perceptions and judgments. Therefore, if [you] don't like this Weibo, please vote by using your feet. Vituperation indicates nothing but your incompetency."^[29]

3. "A Pornographic Bible Net"

On Jan. 27, 2012, Mr. Wang Liming (王立铭), under his web ID "Metamorphic Pepper" (变态辣椒), posted a comic strip entitled The Man Who Is Unable to Prove He Is a Man^[30], depicting the tactics Fang used to question Han Han, which essentially says that there is no way Han Han could prove his innocence in front of Fang Zhouzi. The cartoon was so influential that even Caijing Net reposted on their Weibo on the next day, with the following comment:

"Unable to prove yourself without transformation? Let's live in an environment in which everyone is normal. Today is the last day of the long holidays of the Spring Festival, have you prepared the mood for returning to the normal work and life? Good Morning. Picture by

The man who is unable to prove he is a man

The cartoon depicts a dialogue between Fang Zhouzi and Han Han. The dialogue is as following:

1. You are not a man!
2. Why do you say so?
3. You are impotent!
4. I have had many girlfriends, they can testify.
5. These women are most likely bought by you!
6. Fuck! Do I have to show you?
7. You can't prove your fertility with a penis!
8. I already have a daughter!
9. Who knows whether she is yours or not!
10. We can test DNA!
11. DNA cannot demonstrate that you are sexually potent! She is possibly the result of artificial fertilization.
12. You can't demonstrate, don't you?
13. Ah...you.....don't have.....ah.....^[30].

As expected, that katoey Du Lei jumped out again. He posted a message under the title of “Slapping Faces Again”:

“Caijing Net ‘is not interested in private quarrelings, and will not repost the contents which are hearsays, conjectures of other people’s motives.Vituperation indicates nothing but your incompetency.’ It is too polite to say that it is ‘self-slapping,’ the [verb] should be used is ‘strapping.’”^[32]

Yes, this “science popularizer” believed, at least subconsciously, that Fang’s attack on Han Han was a “private quarreling.” And again, Fang made a comment on katoey Du’s post:

“The Exam Pencil Net which ‘adheres to the philosophy of Caijing Magazine’s journalistic professionalism’ is taking me as its private enemy, and they are even not scruple to change to a Pornographic Bible Net.”^[33] 【Note: Fang substituted the first character of Caijing Net (财经网) (财, cái, finance) to 淫 (yín, pornographic, obscene), therefore the entire meaning of the title changed, because the second character 经 (jīng) also means classic and bible, in addition to economy or economics.】

For some obvious reasons, such as Fang’s connection to the “Big Leaders,” most media in China were scared of Fang. However, Caijing Net was an exception. To Fang’s attack and threat, it responded head on:

“Mr. Fang has flattered himself. The cartoon describes with images the phenomenon that [someone] engages in presumption of guilt wantonly on a citizen under the guise of questioning but without any solid evidence. The reposting was based on the consent to the above understanding. Our Net does not have private enemies; however, we do have our value judgments on public events.”^[34]

Just like that Fang and his gangsters would try to force Mr. Jeffrey Beall to admit his mistake by entangling the Photo War in early 2014 in the MDPI incident^[35], in January 2012, Fang and his gangsters tried desperately to use the caricature incident to force the Caijing Net, the first institutional supporter for Han Han, to back down. And at that time, their only option left was to engage in personal attack. Here is Fang’s next post:

“It seems that the Exam Pencil Net likes very much that the internet users use the editor-in-chief He Gang’s image to draw the similar obscene pictures, describing with images Caijing Net’s journalistic professionalism. Does anyone know which part-time worker the Weibo of Caijing Net hired to manage [the account]?”^[36]

By that, Fang was instigating his followers to attack “the editor-in-chief He Gang.” The fact is, Mr. He Gang was, and still is, the executive editor-in-chief of Caijing Magazine, and in the statement issued two days earlier, Caijing Net already stated explicitly that their Weibo account represents Caijing Net only, not the Magazine^[28]. So, why did Fang want to attack Mr. He? There were several reasons.

First of all, Fang knows very well that in China, the higher a person’s position is, the more timid he becomes, because he will lose more if he slips. Also, it will be easier for Fang to conduct backstage manipulations using his connections to Zhou Yongkang and Li Changchun, because the higher ranked officials have a shorter route to the top. That’s why Fang tried desperately in 2006 to move the lawsuits against him filed by Xiao Chuanguo from the primary courts to the intermediate courts, both in Wuhan and Beijing^[37], and threatened and sued in 2011 Legal Daily instead of Legal Weekly, a subsidiary newspaper of the former but with an independent legal status, for publishing a comprehensive investigation report on his plagiarism^[38].

Secondly, two months earlier, in November 2011, Mr. He Gang defended Dr. Kai-Fu Lee when he was attacked by Fang for a supposed CV fraud, and Fang listed Mr. He as a member of so called “Pro-Lee team”^[39], obviously meant to incite his gangsters to attack them.

Thirdly, three days earlier, on Jan. 25, 2012, Mr. He reposted Dr. Root-Bernstein’s open letter to Fang, first made public in August 2011, accusing him of plagiarism^[40]. Fang must have been hurt by Mr. He’s repost very much because he pretended to be unaware of it, despite he was informed the reposting many times.

Therefore, Fang’s naming Mr. He Gang’s name in the above post was a calculated and deliberate move. The funny thing is, when Mr. He demanded an immediate and public apology from Fang, Fang fought back:

“It is the website belonging to your magazine which has published the obscene cartoon insulting me, violating my rights of portrait and reputation. Although the website is not under your direct leadership, which I have already clarified, how dare you try to pretend to be innocent and ask me for an apology? Is this Caijing's professional journalism?"^[41]

So, exactly how did Fang "clarified"? 84 minutes earlier, Fang posted the following message:

"The person in charge of the Exam Pencil Net is CEO Cheng Jianguo. CEO Cheng publicly supports Han, it seems that he likes very much that the internet users use his image to draw the similar obscene pictures, describing with images Caijing Net's journalistic professionalism."^[42]

30 minutes later, Fang posted another message instigating his followers to attack Mr. Cheng:

"You have overestimated the boss of Caijing Net. The boss of Caijing Net Cheng Jianguo has started his working day already, he is supporting Han on his Weibo right now, and it seems he enjoys it very much. Otherwise, how dare the managing editor of the Weibo to be so presumptuous?"^[43]

Mr. Cheng Jianguo replied Fang almost immediately:

"Mr. Fang has been overrunning the internet for more than ten years, and one of the biggest weapons he relies upon is to mobilize other people to engage in group attack on his target for him. If such crazy smearing and attack could solve the problems and also raising Mr. Fang's image, please help yourself."^[44]

Fang's reply:

"The Caijing Net led by CEO Cheng Jianguo uses pornographic cartoon as a weapon to attack other people, and its image has already been raised to a pornographic website, people like me of course can only help ourselves."^[45]

The dirty secret is well-known

One of Fang's most fearful tactics used in his fraudulent fraud fighting campaigns is to instigate his gangsters to mount group attacks on his targets, and by 2012, that dirty secret had already become common knowledge. The above image is the screenshot of Mr. Cheng Jianguo's post, exposing Fang's dirty trick, translated above^[44]. The post, as well as the post containing the "pornographic cartoon," was soon deleted, apparently under Fang and his gangsters' pressure. (Note: the magnified cartoon is added to the screenshot by me.)

Unfortunately, most of these posts, translated above, disappeared overnight. What happened? First of all, katoey Du Lei, who led a group of Fangangsters, launched an anti-Caijing Net campaign, asking, or more precisely, threatening, everyone on weibo.com who looked like to be associated with the network whether he or she the person who posted the "porn and personal attack" message^[46]. Secondly, some other Fangangsters, for example, Professor Sun Wenjun, even threatened Caijing Net with a lawsuit^[47]. In the evening of Jan. 28, an internet user with a fake ID "Own King 999" (自己的国王 999) posted an article on tianya.cn, entitled: Caijing Net: The First Medium Who Might Face a Lawsuit in the Fang-Han Dispute^[48]. This person claimed that he was neither a Han-lover nor Fang-lover, but was hurt by Caijing Net's repost of the cartoon, because his daughter was watching his screen while he read the post. He pretended to ask other people how to file a complaint or a lawsuit against Caijing Net, but his true intention was obviously to incite them to do the same. He finally filed a complaint against Caijing Net with "China Internet unhealthy information reporting center."

The game of playing the victim

On Jan. 28, 2012, the official microblog of Caijing Net reposted a cartoon strip depicting the fraudulent fraud fighting tactic used by Fang Zhouzi against Han Han. Fang and his gangsters immediately launched a campaign trying to incriminate the network. The above image is a composite of screenshots showing a person with a typical zombie microblog account (no avatar, 0 post) (top) posted an article on tianya.cn trying to threaten Caijing Net with a lawsuit and instigate other people to follow suit^[48].

It was under such a background that Caijing Net deleted the post containing the cartoon, and Mr. Cheng Jianguo deleted his post on Fang's threat. The future John Maddox Prize winner Fang Zhouzi won again, in the name of anti-porn.

4. One of the Most Shameless People

The fact is, although Fang claims that he suffers mysophobia morally, he is perhaps one of the dirtiest people in China's 5-thousand-year history. First of all, he used to brag that he had had so many sexual partners that he could even not remember their names^[49]. Secondly, he has been maintaining an extramarital sexual relationship with Ms. Gao Xiaohong (Sharon G. Li), an FDA agent in the U. S. up to the moment he was awarded the John Maddox Prize (more on it later). Thirdly, in the early part of the Hanly War, Fang allied tightly with Ms. Li Li, or Muzi Mei, who made her name by promiscuity. Therefore, the "pornographic cartoon" was nothing but "a red herring designed to draw attention from the real issue," as Mr. Jeffery Beall realized in the midst of the Photo War^[35].

The funny thing is, in August 2012, the relationship between Fang and Ms. Li Li deteriorated to such extent that Ms. Li became Fang's top enemy for the next year or so, and Fang would call Ms. Li "3-dirty woman." On the New Year Eve of 2013, Fang reposted a poll initiated by Mr. Liu Yu (刘宇 007), one of the most vicious Fangangsters, asking how much money his scicult buddies would be willing to pay for sleeping with Ms. Li Li, and the four choices he listed were: 1. 10 Yuan; 2. 250 Yuan; 3. Being paid 100,000 Yuan; and 4. Prefer being killed. Trying to hurt Ms. Li further, that thug even attached three photos of Ms. Li's, and a photo showing three pigs were mounting on each other^[50].

So, what do you think the moral mysophobic patient Fang Zhouzi's reaction to the vile practice? He reposted the post with the following comment:

"The poll is closing soon; it is not weird that 95% of the people chose 'prefer being killed,' it is weird that there are people who chose the other options."^[51]

in the past three years, Han Han's influence and contribution to the Chinese society could not be surpassed by anybody.

2. Han Han's greatest contribution does not lie in whether he has uttered a profound truth, rather, it lies in that he has showed us a citizen's proper attitude to the power: no matter how awesome you are, I might still think you are clownery; you can tell lies with a sincere face, but you cannot stop me from laughing at you, and then do something I can to change you little by little, and meanwhile, I am living the life I enjoy.
3. Although many people think that the New Trio by Han Han [published] at the end of last year indicates the reversal of his civic attitude to some extent, however, I believe that the Trio is a precious New Year gift from Citizen Han Han to the Chinese society. He tells us with accurate words: every matter which appeared meaningless to discuss about can be discussed when a proper means and context are found.
4. Although Han Han might have started writing a long time ago, my serious attention to and admiration of him began only after 2008. And they were all because of his blog, not because of his Triple Door. I even didn't know that he had done such naive things as participating in writing competitions. Perhaps because that I haven't read many of his novels, I personally believe that Han Han is best at writing articles about 5 inches long.
5. I have absolutely no doubt that the articles since Han Han started blogging are all written by the racing driver Han Han, just like I have absolutely no doubt that the racing driver is the same Han Han who writes his fabulous blog articles. As for the things happened before that time, some mature old men can entertain themselves by playing CSI, however, I am sorry, I am not interested, because I didn't have any interest in Han Han's early compositions and novels in the first place. Even though they were indeed all written by uncle Han, or any of Han Han's father's younger brothers or elder brothers, it won't affect my respect for and admiration of the blog writer Han Han a tiny bit. The respect and admiration is based on the matter on its merits only and on an equal footing. Han Han is only a writer who gives me pleasure of reading with his independent thinking and many short writings. He is not my idol, therefore there is nothing to collapse.
6. Even if, in the most unlikely scenario, that Han Han's short blog articles which I like so much were engineered or even written by his 'team,' I still hope that China could have more Han Hans with a team, than a Fang Zhouzi without a team. The difference between the two is that one of them is willing to watch the government and those in power with his solemn eyes; the other is only willing to stare at other celebrities. There is no need to compare them for sharpness or rigorousness, because they are at the different levels. The realms are different, therefore a comparison is impossible.
7. I have always been respecting critical thinking; however, I do not applaud doubting everything. The difference between the two is, the former needs faith, the latter needs only endless mental labor in one direction. The goal of the former's criticism is to build a house on the ruins, but the latter wants to change even the pyramids into broken walls.
8. Even so, for the sake of fairness, Fang Zhouzi is not completely worthless to our society. He reminds those celebrities under the spotlight that you might regret later when you are bragging in front of a camera. In the foreign countries, a person who wants to run for President wishes that he could have been more cautious about his words and deeds since he was 10 years old, he should not exaggerate too much in his speeches, let alone tell lies casually. Here in China the Western hypocritical democracy is not in fashion, therefore we can only rely upon Mr. Fang Zhouzi (perhaps also including Mr. Sima Nan whose head has just been clamped) to remind us.
9. Finally, although I understand that Han Han as a father has his limit of tolerance in certain areas, I still think his best way to face the questioning is, like I have said in my previous microblog posts, no explanation. Let yourself be a myth like Elvis Presley.

2. Angel: Flushable

Mr. Wang Ran's article was posted early afternoon on Jan. 26, 2012, and it was almost immediately reposted by Caijing Net^[53]. However, Fang waited more than 12 hours to issue his only, and indirect, response to Wang's article, by commenting on the following message by a Fang-lover with a fake ID "global-investment":

"Let's take a look at that Wang Ran from the angel team. Look at his nine reasons for supporting Han Han, my intelligence is insulted."^[54]

And Fang's comment:

"The angel has finally come? 'Thump,' one is down. Anymore?"^[54]

Obviously, Fang, as well as his lover, didn't know the difference between an investment banker and a business angel, which was pointed out by Wang Ran immediately^[55]. However, the more important question is: why did Fang wait so long to respond? The answer is this: he was waiting for his water army to defeat Mr. Wang first. As a matter of fact, in less than an hour after Mr. Wang posted his article on weibo.com, Dr. Sun Wenjun, the chief theorist of Fang's Science Nazi empire, made the following comment on Mr. Wang's post:

"China needs a person who could even not finish his secondary education, and whose scientific literacy is approaching to zero to enlighten its people? It's really a joke."^[56]

Although Dr. Sun's comment was hailed by the Fangangsters, including Fang's wife Liu Juhua who had been using a fake ID "An Ordinary Scholar Smile" (一介书生 smile) since December 2010, but later changed to "My Field and Garden are Overgrown and I'm Going Home" (田园将芜我自归去), to support her husband's fraudulent fraud fighting, anyone else can tell that its stupidity and emptiness were just as obvious as Fang's "thump": China's ideology and examination oriented education is by nature and definition the stupefying education, which leads directly to the Science Nazi's simplified belief that a person's test scores indicate his/her intelligence, and the higher the test scores one has gained in science education, the more power and influence he or she is supposed to possess^[57].

What even funnier than Dr. Sun's stupidity was the comment by Ms. Liu Juhua, whose plagiarism in her Master's degree thesis was exposed 10 months earlier, and her mysterious and likely fraudulent education background would soon become one of the hottest topics on the internet. Here is what she said, 23 minutes after Dr. Sun's comment:

"This is the issue about true and false, not about Han Han's contribution. What kind of enlightenment could be achieved by fraud? Is doing practical work equivalent to no altitude and realm? Which pyramid has been toppled by Fang Zhouzi? Nowadays, some people regard the wall made of dirt and shit as a pyramid, and who goes so far as to talk about Fang Zhouzi's altitude and realm, he is truly enlightened by Han Han."^[58]

田园将芜我自归去:这是真假的问题,而不是韩寒贡献的问题。靠作假要开启何样的民智?脚踏实地就是没境界没高度?方舟子推倒的哪个是金字塔?有人现在连粪土之墙都看成金字塔,居然YY方舟子的境界和高度,不枉是被韩寒开

Absolute shamelessness

Ms. Liu Juhua, Fang Zhouzi's plagiarist wife and a publicly convicted fraudster, talking about the issue of true and false, blasting Han Han, and promoting her husband under a fake ID.

Almost simultaneously, Fang's water army invaded Mr. Wang's blog. A "Halley Xu" (Halley 徐) posted the following comment, in the exactly the same wording, 8 times in 30 minutes:

"Whether Meng Niu [A milk manufacturer which had been accused by Fang of tainting their products with insulin-like growth factor 1] is toxic is not important at all, even its occasional toxicity and carcinogenicity won't affect its image in the public. At least Meng Niu has made indelible contribution to strengthen the health of the youth."^[59]

Another "Photographer Tommy" (拍照的 tommy) made the following comment, also in the exactly the same wording, 8 times in 48 minutes:

"The Achilles heel of Wang Ran's article is that [he] pursues outcome justice but forgets that what really important is procedural justice, [he believes that] it is Okay to engage in fraud for the sake of enlightening people. [He] has read his books in vain, and lived his life in vain."^[60]

Obviously responding to the criticism by "Photographer Tommy", Mr. Wang replied:

"Some of Mr. Fang's supporters mentioned procedural justice in their comments. This is very good, [I'm] very glad to see that they also care about procedural justice. What I want to say is only one sentence: there won't be procedural justice without the presumption of innocence."^[61]

So, what's the response from Fang, or that "Photographer Tommy," or any member of the Fangangsters? They disappeared altogether, except for an idiotic "Qingzhi 1988" (清之 1988), who left 8 abusive comments on Mr. Wang's original post, and kept grumbling the same on Mr. Wang's new post:

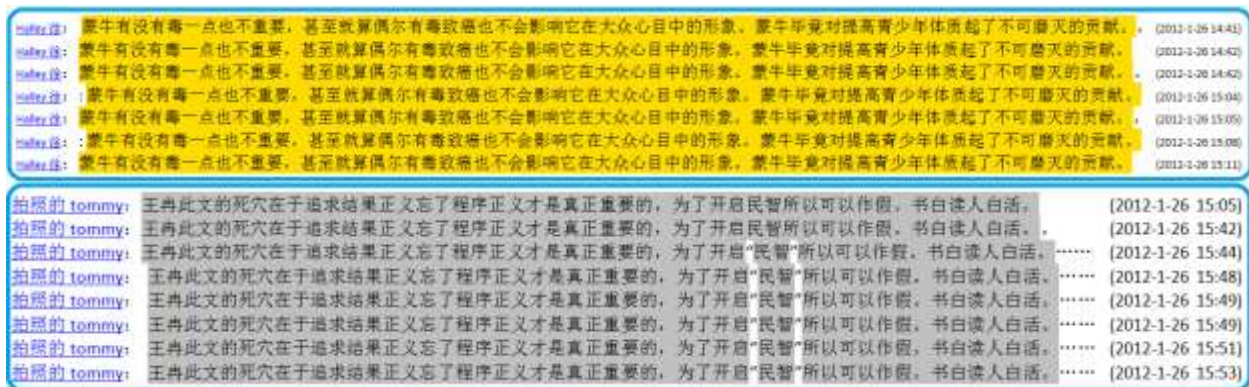

"There was Kim Il Sung in [North] Korea, there is Han Renjun in China, they both are the manufacturers of gods. Korea's Kim Jong-un drove a truck at the age of 4, China's Han Han wrote Triple Door at the age of 16, they both are figures like gods."^[62]

Here are more idiotic comments from this Fang-lover:

"Haha, Old Fang is too naughty, you post your new articles only after the celebrities have jumped down [to the hole]."^[63]

"Fang Zhouzi is really giving his blood and sweat out for the cause of China's honesty. He has spent the entire Spring Festival on searching for the data [of Han Han's fraud]."^[64]

The problem is, unlike Fang's anti-Han posts which generally receive about 90% negative comments, the comments on Mr. Wang's article, more than 4 thousands in total, plus 12 thousand reposts, were all positive and supportive, except a handful negative and abusive ones from Fang's Science Nazi. Still wondering why did Fang wait 12 hours to make his timid, indirect, and imbecile "thump" response?

Science Nazi does evil in the name of science

The text alignment of the machinery posts by Fang's water army, translated above^[59, 60]. Each line is an individual comment on Mr. Wang Ran's article, and the numbers in the parentheses to the right are the time when they were posted. The highlighted texts are exactly the same; however, every post differs from the rest by punctuations or blank spaces, because weibo.com doesn't allow the same user to post identical comment on the same post more than once.

Fang Zhouzi's water army attempts to flood an angel

Fang's water army left abusive, senseless, and repetitive comments on Mr. Wang Ran's pro-Han post, obviously trying to defame the author. The above images are the screenshots of such comments by three of these thugs.

The "Goddess of Democracy" Was Mobbed by the "Rationalists"

Because Fang is extremely cowardly and unmanly in front of real opponents, and he does not want to pretend to be a hero in front of his followers, so he selectively targets those he believes he could defeat triumphantly. As anyone could predict, many of these supposed vulnerable enemies are women. Indeed, after being humiliated by Mr. Wang Ran, Fang's "thump" war was mainly fought against females.

1. The Friendly Fires

22 minutes after announcing that Mr. Wang Ran had fallen into the big hole he was digging up, Fang declared his another victim:

"I think that it is the very fact that 'the Goddess of Democracy,' a returned overseas student who teaches at a renowned university, holds the filthy feet of a racing driver who quitted school as a freshman in high school and whose authorship of his own writings is being questioned, reflects the absurdity of our era. ‘Thump,’ another person falls in. Anymore?’^[65]

The fallen “Goddess of Democracy” was Dr. Liu Yu, who received her doctoral degree in political science from Columbia University in 2006, and has been teaching in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences at Tsinghua University since 2010. Dr. Liu’s book, Details of Democracy, published in 2009 by the Joint Publishing Company in Shanghai, was a huge success, and mainly because of it, she got the nickname “The Goddess of Democracy”^[66]. Obviously, Fang’s “thump” announcement was referring Dr. Liu’s support for Han Han, or in his words, “holding someone’s filthy feet.” The question is: what did Dr. Liu say?

The story actually started from a post by Albert Yuan, the fake doctor who would nominate Fang for the John Maddox Prize 7 months later^[67]. On Jan. 24, 2012, Albert Yuan, under his web ID Local Motor, posted the following message:

“Han Han is a pretty good racing driver, but how inferior his articles published on his blog really are! He keeps showing off his wittiness, keeps expressing his sentiment, with little real material. Nonetheless, the ‘phenomenon of Han Han’ is indeed worth of attention, it reflects the absurdity of our era. I feel pitiful whenever I saw so many mid and old aged intellectuals zealously expressing their love for Han Han. These people don’t have independent thinking; all they have is believers’ blind worship, and blowing their own trumpets.”^[68]

I have mentioned before that the fake doctor Yuan is a pretentious person, very much like Fang; and his talent in writing, as well as his knowledge in science and humanities, is extremely meager, also like Fang. It is still a mystery as why and how such an inferior writer suddenly became well-known and influential in China. Anyway, Yuan’s above post incurred many criticisms immediately. Here is one by a fashion editor of sohu.com:

“Teacher Local Motor, I know that you have written on science and technology, music, life sciences, and so on and so forth... It can truly be said that you know everything, from male impotency and premature ejaculation to atom and physics, you are good at translation and then write them up. However, I could not stand reading a single word of yours, [because] there is no pleasure of reading [your writings] at all. Please forgive my candidness, your writing is the worst in the entire journal of San Lian, peerless.....”^[69]

The comment was supported by many internet users, except for one person with a fake ID who defended Yuan and counter-accused the commentator of plagiarism. When being questioned whether he was Yuan’s sockpuppet, that masked man disappeared immediately^[70]. It seems that the John Maddox Prize nominator’s dirty secret was not a secret after all. Admittedly, Albert Yuan did issue an open response, saying that he was sorry that his writings were beyond the upper limit of the fashion editor’s intelligence^[71].

However, the real blow to Yuan’s comment came from Dr. Liu Yu:

“I understand why the scientific men don’t like Han Han’s writings; however, is it the ‘scientific spirit’ to assert that other people’s like [of Han Han] is ‘believers’ blind worship’? A good article is either widening knowledge or enlightening ideas, Han Han is not good at the former (he is not a scholar), however, in the society where ideas are so messy and confusing, his credit in enlightening ideas or at least inducing the discussion on them should not be denied. Many people like him not out of worshiping, but rather out of affirming his value in this area.”^[72]

Four minutes later, Liu added another comment:

“I think that what really reflects the absurdity of our era is that a bunch of mid and old aged intellectuals, who are supposed to committed to produce ‘real material,’ overbearingly question a popular novel-writing racing driver why his random comments on the injustice do not have the scholastic real material, rigorousness, and thoroughness.”^[73]

2. The Complex Relationships

Yuan and Liu knew each other personally, and they were members of the famous “Old Men’s Eating Club,” a private circle of celebrities or even officials who meet regularly to eat and chat, of course, Luo Yonghao was, and still is, one of its core and adhesive members^[74]. Another fact is, outside the Club, Dr. Liu was, and still is, way more popular than Albert Yuan. And apparently for these reasons, Yuan immediately made two concessions, in his own way:

“You are right, I should have added ‘a portion of,’ the problem is that there are too many ‘a portion of’ people right now, [I am] not able to delete [their posts] as soon as they appear.”^[75]

“Actually, the reason I don’t like Han Han’s writing is because they instigate a very dangerous sentiment. However, you are right, I’ll not discuss him anymore, it is important to cook the meal, hehe.”^[76]

To the last message, Dr. Liu responded:

“In China’s brain-washing education environment, Han Han’s critical observation on the system is enlightenment by itself, especially to the youth. Of course, it is not enough just having anti-system sentiment, rational analysis is also needed; but it is the long term shared responsibility of the intellectual community, no one is able to do it alone in a short period of time. As a matter of fact, I don’t really like Han’s writing very much; however, I think [you] should not demand a horse carriage to carry the load of a train.”^[77]

And about 34 hours later, Fang’s made his “thump” announcement by picking on Liu’s “the absurdity of our era” remark. Before that, Fang was among the first people who reposted Yuan’s message by saying “sending some Han’s Family Swearing Troopers to you.”^[78]

Although the fight between Fang and Liu in the Hanly War was brief and indirect, the background was much more complex and profound.

First of all, when Fang and Mr. Luo Yonghao turned against each other in 2007, Dr. Liu, under a web ID “Drunk Piano” (醉钢琴), allied with Luo and fought against Fang and his gangsters, especially that katoey Du Lei, who apparently was devastatingly humiliated^[79]. Of course Dr. Liu was on her way to become the “Goddess of Democracy” from that time on.

Secondly, in June and July, 2011, when Fang and his comrade Sima Nan were defending the brutality of the city management force in Chongqing, the Red Capital led by Mr. Bo Xilai at the time, Albert Yuan initiated an attack on Dr. Liu, and not only katoey Du Lei and Fang jumped on her, but also the “rationalist” Sun Wenjun, who were trying to site on the fence four years earlier^[80].

Jump out in force

Albert Yuan, Du Lei, and Sun Wenjun, and their leader Fang Zhouzi all jumped out together to attack Dr. Liu Yu in June 2011, shortly after the debate on an incident involving Chongqing urban management force and a female fruit peddler. Fang was later thanked for his defense for the government by an anonymous Chongqing official. The above image is the screen shot of a message originally posted by Albert Yuan and comments by Du Lei, Fang Zhouzi, and Sun Wenjun. Yuan's post cited Liu Yu's answer to the question "What is the thing which you believed in firmly before and have a deep doubt right now?" Liu's answer: "I believed in the power of rationality before, however, I feel that everyone's brain is filled with a high wall, rationality might not be able to penetrate it." Yuan's post was intended obviously to laugh at Dr. Liu's loss of faith in rationality. Du Lei's comment: "The person who has seen Liu Yu's performance of rolling all over the floor is smiling at the this Q&A without a comment." Fang's comment: "If she was doing self-diagnosis and found that her own brain is filled with a high wall impenetrable by rationality, she nonetheless has a little rationality." Sun Wenjun's comment: "If rationality is not able to penetrate, fMRI might be able to."

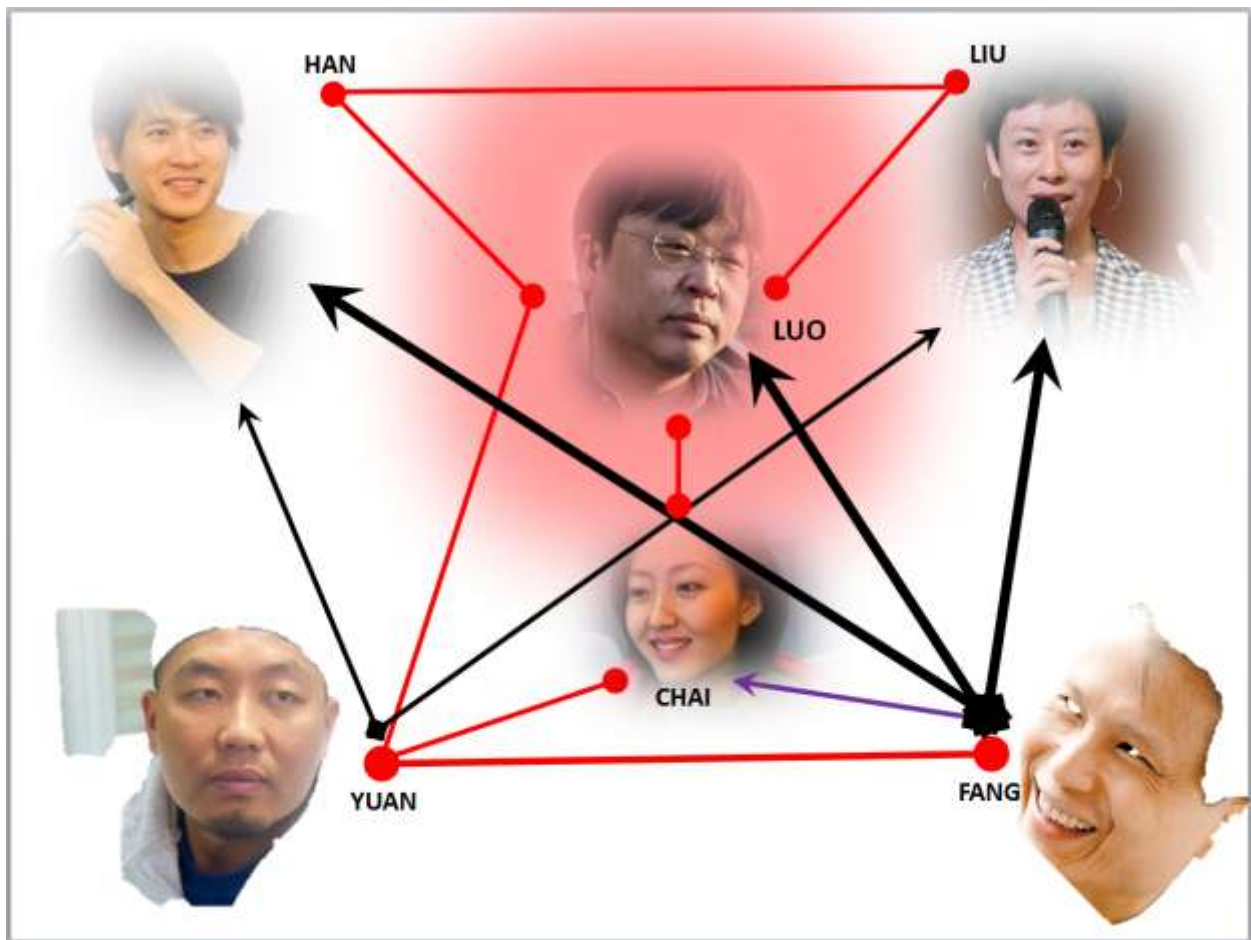

Thirdly, less than two months before the outbreak of the Hanly War, it was revealed that Albert Yuan was an important member of the "Old Men's Eating Club." Ironically, the club was associated with another "Goddess," Ms. Chai Jing, a CCTV hostess, and the very person who caused the feud between Luo and Fang back in 2007. Luo calls Ms. Chai "our Chai Jing," and Ms. Chai and Albert Yuan were, and probably still are, very good friends – Chai wrote a preface for Yuan's book in 2010, and there was a rumor back then that they were dating each other. In 2013, Ms. Chai was accused of relying upon these Old Men to boost her popularity and stock^[81].

So what do these gossips have anything to do with what I am talking about here? One thing is that they give us a clue about the sudden rise of the music critic - turned science writer Albert Yuan: like the Goddesses Chai and Liu, it is almost certain that he got his fame mainly via his association with these Old Men, the things we are not certain are why these old men wanted to associate themselves with such an inferior "scientist," and how did they get along with each other: Yuan is a radical leftist, and the Old Men are mostly liberals. The other significance of the gossips is that they show us that Yuan had absolutely no obvious reasons whatsoever to launch his attack on Han Han, especially on the day he was hosting another gathering of his Club fellows, but he chose to do so. Therefore, the reason for his alignment with Fang must be a hidden and ulterior one, just like his promotion of GMO.

The Old Men's Eating Club and the stars the Club has made

Left: Dr. Liu Yu and Ms. Chai Jing in one of the Old Men's Eating Club gatherings in 2010; right: Ms. Chai Jing and Albert Yuan in another gathering 3 months earlier. The photos were posted online by Mr. Chen Xiaoping, a member of the Club and a director with CCTV. (See: 2010-7-20 01:38, 2010-10-10 01:13.)

The kingmaker

Out of the "Old Men's Eating Club" led by Luo Yonghao have walked two "Goddesses," Ms. Chai Jing of CCTV, and Dr. Liu Yu of Tsinghua University. Luo has befriended (red dumbbells) with everyone in the picture, and supported Fang's fraudulent "fraud fighting" until the end of 2011, when Fang threatened to "kill pigs" and spread rumors against his deceased father. Fang has attacked (black arrows) every one of Luo's friends shown above except for Albert Yuan, who has been one of the inner members of both the "Old Men's Eating Club," probably not long after his "returning" to China in 2005, and Fang's scicult. Yuan's sudden rise in status in China is most likely caused by his association with the Club, especially with Mr. Luo Yonghao and Mr. Zhang

Lixian (张立宪, or 老六), an influential publisher. Although knowing the tight relationships among Luo Yonghao, Han Han, and Dr. Liu Yu, Yuan nonetheless decided to join hands with Fang to attack them. Fang's attack on Ms. Chai was uncharacteristically moderate, because she has been one of the strongest advocates for Fang's fraudulent "fraud fighting" among the Chinese celebrities, and she has been a personal friend of Fang's wife Liu Juhua.

3. Fang's First Victory

On Feb. 4, 2012, 8 days after Fang declared that she had been "thumped," Dr. Liu Yu cleared her microblog on weibo.com, and left a message:

"[I've] gong to Iceland, you guys enjoy yourselves."^[82]

The U. S. trained Goddess of Democracy became a victim of China's mobocracy on the internet

The above is the screenshot of Dr. Liu Yu's microblog on weibo.com, showing, as of July 15, 2014, that she has 785,252 followers, 150 thousand more than the number on Feb. 4, 2012, when she deleted all of her posts.

The red arrow head points to the number of her posts - zero.

Of course she was flooded away by Fang's water army. Although the valuable historical data were lost because of the complete clearance of her posts, there is still enough information to support the conclusion. Here is that katoey Du Lei's comment on Liu's first comment on Yuan's post:

"Such words were spelt out by a bachelor of Renmin University, a doctorate of Columbia University, a post-doctorate of Harvard University, a lecturer of Cambridge University, an associate professor of Tsinghua University, [you'd better] resign, [otherwise, you are] wasting the taxpayers' money."^[83]

On the same day, Sun Wenjun dug up their old dispute happened 4 years earlier to "review the history, and experience the repeat of human nature"^[84].

On Jan. 29, 2012, Lu Jinbo announced that Han Han was going to sue Fang Zhouzi for defamation^[85]. Fang immediately issued a five-point statement, saying that he won't appear in the court; his attack on Han Han belongs to the category of academic criticism and is protected by the freedom of speech; the lawsuit won't stop him from continuing the attack. Fang also made a counter allegation against Han Han, saying that he and his team violated his reputation right^[86]. Five hours after Fang's statement, Dr. Liu Yu made the following comment:

“Some people are saying that Han Han’s lawsuit infringes freedom of speech. It seems that in any civilized countries the freedom of speech has not reached to the absoluteness that the right of reputation might be abolished. Comparing with the internet confrontations which resemble the mass movement of ‘free airing of views, great debate and big-character posters’ [during the Cultural Revolution], I think, whatever the result will be, it is a progress to determine the issue of reputation right by professional legal workers according to the law based on the principle of procedural justice. Of course the premise is judicial justice.”^[87]

One internet user immediately reminded Liu:

“My guts feeling tells me that Fang Zhouzi’s next step is to start investigating sister Liu Yu’s works and demonstrating [they were] ghostwritten or stolen.”^[88]

Several hours later, the same person posted again:

“I don’t understand why these people hate Liu Yu to the extent to gnash their teeth, scratch their heads, beat their chests, and stamp their feet. Could anyone explain to me the reason?”^[89]

Probably around that time, Liu told a journalist that she was considering retreating from weibo.com because of its “belligerence”^[90]. Here is the description of the situation by a research fellow at the Institute of Literature of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences in early 2013:

“Because Han Han didn’t have a Weibo account, the raged anti-Han army found nowhere to vent [their rage], so they thronged to Liu Yu’s Weibo to shout abuse, even compared Han Han and Liu Yu to ‘a pair of doggy man and woman,’ and wanted to knock them both out of the alter. Had Liu Yu had a pair of magic hands which are able to bring a dead man’s life back, she would not have been able to do anything to stop the tempestuous attacks from the anti-Han army, and eventually, she was forced to leave the Sina Weibo by the curses, just like Bai Ye was years earlier.”^[91]

The so called “anti-Han army” is a tactful term for “Fang’s water army,” or Fangangsters.

On the day Dr. Liu Yu left weibo.com, Fang declared his victory by commenting on the following post by a Fang-lover who identified himself as “Love science, a Deng-leftist, but not a Mao-leftist”:

“The Goddess of Democracy touted by the Southern [newspaper] Group gelded her own microblog.....The collapse of Han Han doesn’t mean much, what the most important thing is the fall downs of Southern Group and those male and female public intellectuals.....They are all imposters.”^[92]

And here is Fang’s comment:

“Even the ‘Goddess of Democracy’ has collapsed? I have said all along that once Han Han tumbles, not only his wife would turn against him, his friends leave him, but also those public intellectuals with thin facial skin would leave weibo.com.”^[92]

Like Fang’s other anti-Han posts, this one was also flooded with negative comments. Here are the first three comments from the internet users whose identities had been verified by weibo.com:

A designer with Ericsson: “Mad dog, don’t you roar.....”^[93]

A researcher with Hainan Administrative Law Institute: “Too dirty and too shameful!”^[94]

A columnist: “An ignorant is fearless.”^[95]

4. Xu Kaibin, A Fang’s “Scholar”

On Feb. 24, 2012, Dr. Xu Kaibin, an assistant professor in the School of Media and Communication at Temple University, posted an article online, “questioning” Liu Yu’s scholarship^[96]. Three days later, Fang posted the following message on his microblog:

“Liu Yu, the pro-Han leader and ‘Goddess of Democracy,’ is found not only having a low level of academic, having not published papers in the 141 SSCI journals in the political science area, but also having forged publication record, saying that a paper published in the non-academic International Politics Journal was published in the SSCI journal International Politics. Xu Kaibin: Liu Yu’s Academic Level. <http://t.cn/zO47oay>”^[97]

Fang didn’t tell his followers that Dr. Xu, an extreme leftist, had been attacking, “academically,” Fang’s public intellectual enemies, including Professor He Weifang, Dr. Kai-Fu Lee, and Mr. Luo Yonghao since August 2011^[98]. Fang didn’t tell his followers that this Dr. Xu had called on those Chinese scientists who had been promoting GM rice like crazy to test the food on their own bodies before pushing it into the market^[99]. Of course Fang won’t tell his followers that one day earlier, Dr. Liu Yu had already issued a response to Dr. Xu’s criticism^[100].

Dr. Xu Kaibin, one of “Fang’s scholars”

Since 2011, Dr. Xu has been attacking Dr. He Weifang of Peking University, Dr. Liu Yu of Tsinghua University, Dr. Kai-Fu Lee of Innovation Works, Ms. Hu Shuli of Caixin Media, and Mr. Luo Yonghao, all of them are liberals, and except for Ms. Hu, all of them have been attacked by Fang Zhouzi. Dr. Xu's most famous Chinese writing is probably the one calling for re-trial of Mr. Bo Xilai, the spiritual leader of China's extreme leftists, and one of Fang's political backers, Those Who Put Bo Xilai on Trial Will Definitely Be Tried by the People^[101]. According to Google Scholars, as of Jan.10, 2015, Dr. Xu has 14 academic publications, which have been cited a total of 20 times. The above images are the screenshots of Dr. Xu's homepage on Temple University's website (upper), and his publication list on the New Threads (lower).

As a matter of fact, the website which published Dr. Xu's article originally is known as a left-wing website^[102]. And there is evidence showing that the website was intentionally trying to discredit Dr. Liu Yu, because it changed the title of an article, without the authorization by the author, from "Liu Yu's Demanding for Democracy and Han Han's No Revolution" to "Liu Yu's Academic Level is Even Worse than Han Han's"^[103]. Dr. Xu was harshly criticized for being a "fake foreigner" who uses "Fang Zhouzi's way" to attack Liu Yu, and his Fang-style "transboundary fraud fighting," or more precisely, "ignorance-based discrediting activity"^[104]. Do you think the John Maddox Prize winner Fang would ever tell other people these facts? Not even in your wildest dreams!

Dr. Liu Yu's retreat from weibo.com was regarded by Fangangsters as a landmark victory in their anti-Han campaign, "symbolizing the complete collapse of the first group of public intellectuals who are also the strongest supporters for Han Han"^[105], as a Fang-lover proclaimed. Of course the assertion was nothing but a joke. Just a half year earlier, in July 2014, this Fang-lover bragged that he was the first person who betrayed Fang after the "big flag" incident^[106]. However, Dr. Liu's retreat was indeed considered a Han Han's defeat at the time. Here is a comment by an internet user made on the day when Liu Yu left weibo.com:

"Real public intellectuals will never win their fights against thugs, because they want to stick to many principles of democracy, for example, they cannot disallow other people to speak, even if what they are saying is slanderous. However, the thugs have no such principles, what they have is only one goal, which is to ruin the public intellectuals' reputation and creditability, with whatever means, regardless of the procedure and facts. Therefore, Liu Yu deletes her microblog posts, Han Han doesn't respond anymore, and people like Fang Zhouzi, Ranxiang [a fake ID by an extreme leftist] are still standing strong, how normal it is."^[107]

A Reporter Became a "Hooker"

Before washing away the Goddess of Democracy with his water army, Fang had also threatened several other celebrities.

The first of these people was Ms. Hu Ling (凤凰卫视胡玲), the chief correspondent of Phoenix Satellite TV's in Beijing, who gained her fame during the Great Sichuan Earthquake in 2008 when she interviewed Mr. Hu Jintao, the President of China at the time. On Jan. 25, 2012, Ms. Hu posted the following message:

"Uncle Han Renjun, with Mr. Fang Zhouzi's persistent fraud busting, I have finally found you at the beginning of the new spring, and determined resolutely to be one of your followers. I only want to say that whether or not these writings were written by your, or Han Han, or your team, I have already saved them all in my computer, and they will be used as the first textbooks for my children! As long as the words are sincere, they will have the power to last forever!"^[108]

A few minutes later, she added:

“To be more concise, thanks for Han Han’s writings, thanks for Han Han’s father’s nurture, Fang Zhouzi can shut up!”^[109]

Superwoman

34 hours later, Fang reposted Ms. Hu’s posts with the following comment:

“‘Thump,’ another one jumped down. Anymore? In a half hour, I’ll open the new season, let me hear one more sound.”^[110]

Before Fang’s comment, Ms. Hu’s posts had gathered only a few dozens of comments and forwards. Immediately after Fang’s comments, the Fangangsters flooded Ms. Hu’s microblog. And exactly because the target was a young lady, these thugs went extremely wild, the sexually abusive words such as “chick” (鸡), “bird” (鸟), or straightforwardly “hooker” (妓者, jì zhě, pronounced the same as 记者, journalist. The term was invented and used frequently by Fang Zhouzi to refer Chinese journalists, despite the fact that his wife has been a journalist since they met in 2001) were among the most frequently used terms by them. Look at this comment by a person who registered his Weibo account just one day earlier and called himself first “Fix the world with a spit” (一口唾沫定江山), and then changed to “Besides Brother Bridge there is no other brother” (桥哥之外再无哥):

“The brain of this woman named Hu Ling is really not very clear. According to her, she can be pulled down and rapped by any man in the street, as long as he can make her high. Such a bitch can be employed by the Phoenix Satellite TV? No wonder the Phoenix Satellite TV nowadays is completely different from the one in the past.”^[111]

桥哥之外再无哥: 这个叫胡玲的女人脑子真有点不清醒。按她的意思, 她可以被大街上随便哪个男人给摁倒强奸, 只要他操得她爽。这种货也能进凤凰卫视? 怪不得凤凰卫视现在和当年不可同日而语了。//@方舟子:“扑通”, 又跳下去一个。还有吗? 再过半小时我就开始下一季了, 让我多听个响。

@凤凰卫视胡玲 V: @韩仁均叔叔, 在方舟子先生不屈不挠的打假下, 我在新春伊始终于找到了你, 并毅然决然成为你的粉丝, 只想说, 无论那些文字是你的, 是韩寒的, 还是你们团队的, 我已经悉数存在电脑里, 将来要作为我的孩子的, 第一本教科书! 只要是真诚的文字, 就有传世之力!

A thug from Fang's water army

Insulting women with sexually abusive language is the game these thugs are most fond of. The above image is the screenshot of comment made by one of such thugs, “Besides Brother Bridge there is no other brother,” on one of Ms. Hu Ling’s post, translated above^[108, 111].

Another Fang-lover who calls himself “A Liar in the Five Sacred Mountains who cheats for his foods and drinks” (混吃骗喝五岳谎人), mocking one of Fang’s personal enemies, Mr. Yao Bo whose web ID is “An Idler in the Five Sacred Mountains” (五岳散人), was among the first to launch a serial attack on Ms. Hu, posting 6 abusive comments within 22 minutes after Fang’s “thump” announcement. Here are the first four of them:

“Idiot, another stupid bird.”^[112]

“Uncle Han has escaped!!!!”^[113]

“Old Fang, the grand finale!!! Uncle Han’s unbelievable magic show!!!”^[114]

“[The people associated with] the Little Bird [TV] Station are all stupid bird people.”^[115]

Another Fang-lover with a fake web ID “huqiujiatong” but later changed to “Clear and watery icy wood” (清清水水的冰木), who would become a Fang-hater in a few months after Fang started his fight against Ms. Li Li, posted 9 comments. The following one was posted twice:

“Hehe, I didn’t find out until today that there are so many bitches that have secret crush on Dr. Fang. Here comes another non-virgin who is trying to seduce the Fraud Fighter Fang. I guess that the Fraud Fighter Fang is only interested in the virgins; Auntie Hu had better take a shower and go to bed alone. Don’t try to lure Knight Fang with a banner of loving the faker.”^[116]

Thugs

The abusive comments posted by Fang's thugs "A Liar in the Five Sacred Mountains who cheats for his foods and drinks" (left) and "Clear and watery icy wood" (right) attacking Ms. Hu Ling.

The funny thing is, possibly being apprehended by the minimal possibility that Ms. Hu Ling was indeed trying to seduce Fang, Fang's wife Liu Juhua and his mistress Sharon G. Li also jumped on her. Here is the comment by the (fake) Master of Journalism from the Graduate School of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (GSCASS) and the chief reporter of Xinhua News Agency:

"How pathetic Hu's son is, [his mother] has prepared rotten eggs for him even before he is born (Li Ao's words)."^[117]

Here are the two comments made by the FDA agent Sharon G. Li:

"How come our motherland has such a joker journalist? Laugh to death."^[118]

"Maybe [she] is an undercover Fang-lover, we have to blame our motherland for having made too many spy dramas in the last few years."^[119]

The Milky Way

The screenshots of the comments by Liu Juhua and Sharon G. Li on Ms. Hu Ling's pro-Han Han posts, translated above. Please note that Liu didn't post her comment on her homepage, while Sharon G. Li deleted all of her posts on weibo.com in early 2014 after her extramarital sexual relationship with Fang became known to the public. In the vernacularized Chinese, a man's legal wife is called 大奶 (dà nǎi, big lady), and his first mistress is called 二奶 (èr nǎi, second lady). The character 奶 also has other meanings, such as grandma, breast, and milk, so these terms are occasionally translated into the First Milk and the Second Milk. See: [Wiktionary.]

However, unlike the “Goddess of Democracy,” Ms. Hu has never wavered in her support for Han Han even under such vicious attack. On Jan. 28, 2012, the next day after being mobbed by Fangangsters, Ms. Hu Ling reposted Han Renjun’s Talking about Myself, and citing the following as her comment:

“I hope that Han Han is able to live in a social environment in which normal people have their trust in and communication with each other. You might disagree with his viewpoints, you might dislike him and scold him directly, however, please don’t to frame him, slander him with malicious speculations. It is very easy to destroy Han Han with all kinds of rumors and assumptions...I think that Han Han is not so easy to be killed by rumors.’ – Please read it patiently!”^[120]

Perseverance

Even under Fangangsters’ continuous vicious attacks, Ms. Hu Ling has never retreated from her position on supporting Han Han. The above image shows two screenshots of Ms. Hu’s posts, the upper one recommended an article praising Han Han; the lower one expressed her wish to watch a drama based on one of Han Han’s novels in Beijing^[121].

Kai-Fu Lee Became “Carefully Lee”

1. The Faker Yuan Again!

24 hours after Fang announced that Ms. Hu Ling had “thumped” into his hole, Dr. Kai-Fu Lee, “a Taiwanese IT venture capitalist, executive, writer, micro-blogger, and computer scientistbased in Beijing”^[122], posted the following message:

“In a society filled with trust, people normally adopt the presumption of innocent until proven guilty. In a society the trust is missing, people normally adopt the presumption of guilty until proven innocent.”^[123]

Everybody, including the fake doctor Albert Yuan, knew Dr. Lee was commenting on Fang’s attack on Han Han. Here is the faker’s comment:

“There really exists difference in this aspect between China and America, the question is why? Are Chinese people natural skeptics? I am not talented, [but want to] propose a hypothesis: whether it is possibly caused by the dishonesty of many people in the high positions such as you? I also understood why there are differences between the Chinese and English editions of your autobiography.”^[124]

This was Albert Yuan’s second attempt to join in Fang’s anti- Han Han campaign in two days after his first one was smashed by Dr. Liu Yu. Obviously, Yuan thought Dr. Lee’s post offered him another opportunity. The question is, exactly what the faker was talking about?

On Nov. 22, 2011, not long after he was kicked out of the column in China Youth Daily apparently because of his plagiarism scandal, Fang launched a sudden attack on Dr. Lee. In a time span of 7 hours, he posted 17 consecutive posts on weibo.com, accusing him of CV fraud and dishonesty in his autobiography, Making a World of Difference: The Kai-Fu Lee Story, because in the Chinese version of the book, Lee claimed that in 1990, at the age of 28, he was the youngest vice professor at Carnegie Mellon University. Fang, based on a paper published in 1990, in which Lee was introduced as a Research Computer Scientist, asked Lee to explain the discrepancy^[125]. Although Dr. Lee responded immediately, pointed out eight factual mistakes in Fang’s allegations^[126], the fight didn’t stop until the end of November, and it was reported frequently by national news media including Xinhua News Agency and people.com, the official website of People’s Daily.

Although most people believed that Dr. Lee was innocent, at the most he made a negligent error in translating his academic title at Carnegie Mellon University, “assistant professor,” into “vice professor” in Chinese, for the reason that in the higher education institutions in China, an entry level teacher is called “assistant teacher,” which is actually lower than a lecturer, and the position above a lecturer is vice professor^[127], Fang and his gangsters believed, and are still believing, otherwise: just like they believe anyone who has been attacked by Fang is guilty of being attacked, Kai-Fu Lee was guilty of lying to or deceiving Chinese people. And that’s exactly what the faker Albert Yuan meant in the above post. It is extremely surprising that the triple faker Yuan, who faked his “American Ph. D.” credential, faked his “mainstream scientist” resume, and faked his “science writer” career^[128], had the guts to keep reminding Dr. Lee his “fraud.” That’s how shameless the Fangangsters really are.

Triple Faker Albert Yuan accuses Dr. Kai-Fu Lee of CV fraud

2. A Prelude

It is almost certain that Fang's attack on Dr. Lee was a revenge on one of Lee's post, made public three months earlier, calling on him to focus on more important issues like the Wenzhou train collision and the Guo Meimei and the Red Cross scandal, instead of continuously attacking individual public intellectuals^[129]. Another likely reason for Fang's attack on Dr. Lee was political: about 10 months after Fang's attack, the Party Building Net, the official website of the Propaganda Department of the CCP Central Committee, published an article entitled Zhou Xiaoping Asks Kai-Fu Lee Ten Question^[130]. It is the most definite signal indicating that Dr. Lee was considered a political enemy by the Chinese government, therefore Fang's attack on Dr. Lee was nothing but a prelude to a government-organized campaign. And of course, Mr. Zhou Xiaoping, a famous radical leftist and patriot, was the person who triggered Fang's expel from China's internet on Oct. 21, 2014, and Fang has been trying his best to portray himself as a victim of Mr. Zhou's soaring in China^[131].

继“炮轰”新华社总裁唐骏学历造假后,前天下午4点多,“打假专业户”方舟子又在微博上“开炮”,对创新工场CEO李开复在其自传中称“在美国卡内基·梅隆大学副教授的职称”提出质疑,“他在那段时期论文的作者简历说他是博士”云云。

被质疑时很“淡定” “早料到这一天会来”

“早就料到这一天会来了。”昨天,创新工场新闻发言人王肇晖在接受采访时透露,8月份方舟子质疑北大法学院教授贺卫方,称其20年不发表学术论文,单靠时评、演讲没有资格胜任北大法学院教授一职。

之后,原央视主持人王利芬8月11日在微博上称,“建议方舟子把精力集中在一些更有意义的需要追根溯源的事情上,比如说中国红十字会的账目和723事情的真相。”此后,李开复转发此微博并表示支持王利芬,“有人说方舟子一直对李开复不满,所以这次方舟子公开质疑李开复副教授职称也并没出乎我们的意料。”

对于方舟子的质疑,王肇晖表示并未影响到李开复,“李开复在得知这一消息之后也很冷静,在微博上对方舟子的质疑也一一做出了回应。”

李开复昨天回应表示,“有些网友说我怎么老自夸老掉牙的事情。其实,我只是在澄清一些对我的误解。抱歉浪费了网友的宝贵时间。” 实习记者 夏前坤

李开复 方舟子 唐骏

一个是拥有136万粉丝的打假名人,一个是拥有957万粉丝的大学生导师,方舟子针对李开复的打假近来吸引了圈内外大量人士的关注。日前,李开复出席了卡内基梅隆大学给自己的赠书并对自传中“严谨不谦虚”的地方表示歉意;方舟子则表示李开复与唐骏的性情不同,并希望李能再出一本描述其在三大IT公司经历的自传。然而,与上次唐骏事件不同的是,此次众多的金融、IT业大佬公开选择站在李开复一边。尽管有人为方舟子的仗义叫好,但更多的网友则称赞李开复的涵养和风度,用一位网友的话说:“一场战斗之后,李开复老师和方舟子先生体面离场,台上横着满身弹孔的贫困县唐骏县长”……

正方

支持李开复的人“只有圈子,没有是非”

@littlekang: 围观方舟子李开复两位美国名校博士微博掐架,颇有趣味!起先也认为方舟子有点小题大做,毕竟李开复身价可不是一般博士唐骏;深入思考才不得不佩服方舟子质疑精神逻辑思维,更看到此次揭假意义;并特意补充到:强调诚信为先的李开复个人成就,而是将其从“人生导师”神坛上拉下来,或给迷信励志书成功的学青年以警醒。

@约安琴歌魔魔咨询: 很多人质疑方舟子的理由:这世界上比李开复过分的人多的是,所以没必要揪住人家这点儿小问题不放。但如果我的孩子来到这个世界上,他还认识不到人间其实有这么多见怪不怪的欺骗之时,我更希望他能多遇到几个方舟子这样较真的人,多认清几个李开复这样的小骗子,也许以后他就会少上几回大骗子当。

反方

方舟子拿着放大镜,显微镜为李开复刷牙

@马日拉: 方舟子一介文人,媒体敢不作非或者选择站在李开复一边。感觉与咬嚼酸枣时遇到刺毒两人。他表示委屈和不甘。其实吧,《动物世界》里放狮子的镜头,都是咬住了一个大猎物。没见播过咬到一撮毛还咬高来吼的狮子。要让所有人都觉得你厉害,咬狮子吧,别咬毛。

@光事小神仙2430: 对李开复这样清高之士,他的内心一直是瞧不起的,但经方舟子一折腾,他对李先生的好感大增。是人都有虚荣心,用温美之词粉饰了经历非常正常,像弹墨没人敢言例外;面对逼方本人人都认为不是故意造假的质疑,李先生如此卑微忍让,一次又一次地拿原始资料来解释直至道歉,这么在乎人家看法,实在令人惊讶。

超越了喋喋不休的口水骂战和暴力狂欢,这就是良性循环

《南风窗》近来一篇文章批评当下舆论中的那种戾气:稍有不和,立即诉诸语言暴力。暴力倾向正在向比较文雅的书生人和中产阶级弥散,本来是“秀才遇剑兵,有理说不清”,现在秀才碰到秀才,也有理说不清了——确实是这样,君不见微博上“约架”成风,一言不合,便开骂别人爹娘,便要“约架”,甚至在媒体上对骂,而且,做出这种事,并不是普通网友,而是常常写文章唱道德高调、扮精神导师、喊公平正义、倡文雅理性的读书人。知识分子这副脏话连篇、毫无辩论理性、动辄诉诸语言暴力的德性,加剧着社会的暴戾之气。

批评者,无批评的善意,无被人说破的准备,无自制的底线,说错了没话说“对不起”的习惯,一事当前先站立场,先分敌友,先问被骂者爹娘,这种自白、傲慢与无德,对围观的大众形成极恶劣的负面暗示。

知识阶层在公共空间中的无德表现,非理性的谩骂,以暴制暴的恶性循环,引领着舆论朝着非理性的方向一路狂奔。错了,道一声歉,天塌不下来;用和善去说教,不会降低语言的力量;理性地交流,更能形成真正的沟通。所以我很欣赏李开复对待批评的态度。他认错和道歉并不损其形象,仍不愧为青年导师。方舟子的打假,有利不让恶人们更加珍惜自己的乳毛,让他们知道“被高僧骂原时是批他给的”。而李开复的道歉则说明,加错就改,仍不失其魅力。超越了喋喋不休的口水骂战和暴力狂欢,这就是良性循环。(曹林《中国青年报》)

Expected move, unexpected outcome

Upper: On Nov. 23, 2011, the day after Fang's sudden attack on Dr. Kai-Fu Lee, the spokesman of the Innovation Works told the news media that Fang's attack on Dr. Lee had been expected since August 2011 when Dr. Lee concurred with CCTV hostess Ms. Wang Lifan's suggestion that Fang should focus on more meaningful things [than private individuals] (red boxes). The image is the newspaper page from the Oriental Guardian published on Nov. 24, 2011. Lower: On Dec. 5, 2011, Bozhou Daily reported that the majority of the internet users praised Dr. Lee's decency and grace in responses to Fang's attack. The report also quoted a comment by Mr. Wang Jiamin (web ID Ma Rila), saying that Fang's attack on Dr. Lee was like a bite on hairs rather than the neck. Mr. Wang would be one of the major opponents against Fang's attack on Han Han in less than two months. Please note that in the title, Fang Zhouzi Busts Kai-Fu Lee's Fraud (actually Fang Zhouzi "fraud busts" Kai-Fu Lee), the words "fraud busts" have the quotation marks, indicating most people didn't believe Fang's attack on Kai-Fu Lee was really busting fraud.

Only with the above story in mind, one is able to understand why Albert Yuan's comment on Dr. Lee's message was hailed by many Fangangster, including that internationally infamous plagiarist Liu Juhua: the female faker put a smiley face to show her approval of and encouragement for the male faker.

Fake Dr. Albert Yuan is praised by fake Master Liu Juhua
After fake American Ph. D. Albert Yuan posted a message to attack Dr. Lee, Liu Juhua, the fake Master of Journalism from GSCASS and an infamous chief reporter of Xinhua News Agency showed her approval with a smiley face^[132].

Then, Fang made his comment:

"Kai-Fu Lee is carefully preparing on the edge of the hole to jump in."^[133]

Fang's comment generated the second wave of attacks on Dr. Lee. Here is a comment by that katoey Du Lei:

"That's why Vice Professor Kai was dug up in the society where the trust is missing, and such a thing won't happen in a society filled with trust."^[134]

Here is a post by that Wu Xingchuan, the commander of Fang's water army and the (fake) "senior executive" of a nonexistent company^[135]:

"Kai-Fu Lee: In the society filled with trust, my position is Assistant Professor. In the society the trust is missing, my position is Associate Professor."^[136] 【Please note that Dr. Lee never claimed that he was an associate professor. It was Wu who translated a Chinese vice professor to an American Associate professor.】

Still remember that idiotic "Qingzhi 1988" (清之 1988)? He appeared again, posted at least 13 comments on Dr. Lee's message, mainly recycling his older ones, including that "There was Kim Il Sung in [North] Korea, there is Han Renjun in China....."^[62]. Here is his first comment:

"This Kai-Fu Lee is simply an idiot, why is a hypocrite like you followed by so many people. Guilty or not, what Fang said has his sources, he didn't fabricate; his reasoning is of high quality, they are proper questionings. According to you, it seems like that Fang likes to smear other people. Don't you forget, you own asshole is not clean either? Is Obama your classmate? You hypocrite."^[137]

Besides these (fake) evidence-based attacks, there were also some pure rumors. For example, a Fang-lover "atmnght" posted the following story: when Fang was busting Lee a few months earlier, Lee was so scared that he used his connections to look around the world for the people who are close to Fang so that they could plead for leniency for him, and even Fang's wife's bosses were involved^[138]. The rumor was actually initiated by the CCTV commentator Mr. Wang Zhi'an, one of Fang's closest followers at the time, who would become one of Fang's most hated enemies in about one and a half years. On Dec. 8, 2011, Mr. Wang posted the following message:

“Not long after Fang Zhouzi started exposing Kai-Fu Lee’s fraud, Lee was scared when he learnt that Fang was seriously trying to investigate his history. He immediately asked many people to beg Fang Zhouzi [not to do so]. According to Fang, what Kai-Fu Lee feared the most was that Fang was going to investigate the lawsuit he had had with Microsoft years earlier, at that time, Microsoft made all of Lee’s emails in the company public, which have too many secrets. Oh dear, had he known that the thing has to be like this today, he might not have done it in the first place.”^[139]

The reliability of Mr. Wang’s story was seriously questioned by many people, including Fang’s closest associates such as Du Lei and “Xuzhuzi” (虚逐子). Here is what that Xuzhuzi wrote:

“It is weird. If Old Fang decides not to play the fourth season, he should have no reason to reveal the secrets, [so] how did you know them? On the other hand, does it sound like that Old Fang was conquered by the public relation [campaign]? @Fang Zhouzi.”^[140]

Besides this Xuzhuzi, there were at least two other people thought the story indicates that Fang received payment from Dr. Lee, and many more people asked Wang to show the evidence to substantiate his story, and asked Fang directly to verify it^[141]. However, till this day, neither of them has responded to the requests yet.

Fang's water army attacks Dr. Kai-Fu Lee

After Fang made a threatening comment on Dr. Lee's "innocent until proven guilty" post at 2012-1-27 17:14, a pack of Fangangsters jumped on Dr. Lee to attack him and his supporters. The above images are the screenshots of the comments by some of these thugs who made multiple comments. Please note that except for those comments by that "atmnght", which were in the commentary section of Fang's comment on Dr. Lee's post, all the others were the comments directly under Dr. Lee's post.

3. A Perennial Target

It seems that Fang and his water army did stop Dr. Lee from supporting Han Han publicly for the moment. However, three months later, Dr. Lee led a delegation of mainland Chinese, including Han Han, to Taiwan, which was received by the Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou^[142]. The photograph showing President Ma shaking hands with Han Han immediately flooded the China's internet. Of course Fang was extremely upset, he spent the entire evening of May 3, and the entire day of May 4 to let off his bitterness, calling China "The People's Republic of Cheating"^[143], the delegation "Cheaters' Delegation"^[144]. As a matter of fact, Fang's resentment was so huge that on the third day, May 5, 2012, he reposted an old and anonymous article accusing Mr. Ma Ying-jeou of CV fraud^[145].

Hail to the Chief

On May 3, 2012, Taiwan President Ma Ying-jeou shook hands with Han Han and greeted him by saying "I've heard so much about you." Two days later, Fang reposted an old rumor article accusing Mr. Ma of CV fraud^[145].

On Sept. 5, 2013, Dr. Lee revealed that he was diagnosed with cancer^[146]. Fang immediately seized the opportunity to pretend to be a cancer expert, making the story the topic of his “micro-column on qq.com”^[147]. One month later, Fang reposted a message accusing Dr. Lee of using water army^[148].

The fact is, before Fang was kicked out of China’s internet on Oct. 21, 2014, he had never stopped his attack on Dr. Lee^[149]. And even after being kicked out China’s internet, Fang is still watching Dr. Lee carefully. On Nov. 18, 2014, Fang posted following message on his Twitter account:

“I have just found that Kai-Fu Lee actually has more than a million followers on Twitter, however, his retweet numbers are very low; some of them are single digit, most of them are double digits. Could the followers on Twitter be purchased?”^[150]

To understand Fang’s reasoning, you have to know the following facts:

1. At that time, 28 days after relocated to Twitter after being kicked out of China’s internet, Fang had less than 28,000 followers;
2. Just less than one month earlier, Fang had nearly 20 million followers on sohu.com;
3. Just less than a half year earlier, in May 2014, to demonstrate that Fang’s influence on China’s internet was very limited, Fang’s private lawyer Peng Jian told the Third Intermediate People’s Court in Beijing that the average numbers of comments and reposts of Fang’s posts on sohu.com were merely over two hundred^[151].
4. Just less than a year earlier, in January 2014, another Fang’s lawyer told a court in Guangzhou that many of Fang’s 5 million followers on weibo.com were fake^[152].
5. In August 2012, when nominating Fang for the John Maddox Prize, the fake American Ph. D. Albert Yuan wrote: “His blog, as well as Weibo (a twitter-like Chinese website) are all extremely popular in China.”^[153]

So, what can we make of these facts? Very simple: Fang has been knowingly purchasing zombie accounts as his followers to boost his image for the only purpose of cheating, such as cheating for the John Maddox Prize. However, when Fang wanted to cheat the court to get monetary compensation in his countless libel lawsuits, he would tell the judges that his followers are fake, and his influence in China is very limited, therefore he was unable to clear his name by providing evidence on his own microblogs, hence the people sued by him should be punished monetarily. In other words, Fang’s zombie followers could be used by Fang either way to cheat, and simply based on his own fraudulent history, Fang assumes that everyone else must have been cheating also.

However, Fang’s real intention in the above message was actually asking his rich followers to purchase zombies for his Twitter account, because with merely 30,000 followers, “Netizen” Fang’s life, in both real and virtual worlds, is really, really miserable. In other words, Fang could not face the fact that the number of his real followers (Fangangsters or ScieNazis) is extremely limited, maybe just a few hundreds.

The “Queen of Microblog”

50 minutes after directing his water army to flood Dr. Kai-Fu Lee, Fang issued another directive:

“‘Thump,’ Yao Chen, the ‘Queen of Microblog,’ has jumped down also. The hole I’m digging up will be big enough anyway. I welcome you to list those celebrities and websites who are still strenuously supporting Han Han. When this series is finished, I’ll acknowledge these uninvited supporting stars in the cast and crew list.”^[154]

So, who is this Yao Chen, and what did she do?

1. “Xizi”

Ms. Yao (born 1979) is one of the most popular movie stars in China, and one of the earliest weibo.com users. Since 2010, Ms. Yao has been the most followed microblogger in China, with nearly 76 million as of now, January 2015. In June 2014, Ms. Yao was listed as one of the World's 100 Most Powerful Women by Forbes^[155]. However, she made herself Fang's enemy because she posted the following message on Jan. 27, 2014:

“Sigh, [someone] has been wrangling from pre-New Year to post-New Year, and [it seems that he] enjoys it. If I was [the person who is being attacked], I won't be so patient: I would have taken legal action a long time ago to prove my innocence. What is it called in legal term? Sounds like ‘defamation.’”^[156]

And about 3 hours later, Fang made the above “thump” comment on Ms. Yao's post. Obviously afraid of the content of the post, Fang didn't repost the message he was commenting on, and he didn't give the link to the post either.

The Queen has just incriminated herself

In the traditional Chinese culture, acting was considered one of the most shameful occupations, not far away from prostitution, and there was even a derogatory term for the actors or actresses, Xizi (戏子, xì zi, literally a person who performs). Another characteristic of the traditional Chinese culture is its patriarchy: women were believed to be inferior, and thus should subordinate themselves to men. Although Fang and his gangsters pretend to be the believers in science and followers of Western culture, the truth is that they have inherited the worst elements in the Chinese tradition. For example, Fang himself has been using the term Xizi frequently to insult his enemies, whether they work in the entertainment industry or not. For example, in March 2013, Annie Yi, a Taiwanese singer, actress, and writer, posted an anti-nuclear message on weibo.com, and Fang commented:

“A Xizi without scientific literacy performs and pretends to be a democracy goddess on the issue of science and technology-related people's livelihood. Did mainland Chinese learn this from Taiwanese, or Taiwanese learned this from mainland Chinese?”^[157]

Fang's remark generated huge negative response, and Fang fought back by repeating the term to provoke further uproar:

“Why do some people behave like their ancestors tombs are dug up when I call those entertaining stars who perform in front the public on public issues Xizi? When did these entertaining stars begin to have such a high status in China that even a derogatory term cannot be used?”^[158]

Fang's another derogatory term used frequently for his enemies, “liberal arts silly girls” or “humanities silly girls” (文科傻妞), is a live testimony of his contempt for women. As a matter of fact, whenever fighting against a female enemy, Fang could not help controlling his desire to show his superiority and dominance, especially when she doesn't have a Ph. D. degree from a university like the Michigan State University. Influenced by their leader, the Fangangsters are extremely fond of attacking female targets with dirty languages. Here are the comments by a Fang-lover who calls herself “pooniu”:

“Nothing but a female Xizi, had she had some insights, she won't have lost her husband.”^[159]

“Junk movies! A mentally retarded upstart, large breasts, idiotic master and fans, no imagination, no sense of humor, no creativity.”^[160]

And she posted the following comment at least six times in four minutes:

“Yao Chen, the Xizi in Han Han's Swearing Troop. Wake up and hurry up to support [Han Han].”^[161]

Here are the comments made by that “atmnght”:

“I have experienced the stupidity of Yao Chen the Xizi before.”^[162]

“Oh my God, every Xizi wants to be the Tenth-Daughter of Du [a fictional figure who was sold to a brothel but later committed suicide for being betrayed by her lover], gives up her prostitution career and gets married, and becomes a public intellectual. How could she miss such a golden opportunity for hyping? It's a good thing, don't stop her.”^[163]

Still remember that “Besides Brother Bridge there is no other brother”? Here is one of his comments:

“The actresses in Hong Kong and Taiwan even sell sex, does Beauty Yao sell also?”^[164]

The hardest working Fang-lover was “Press the whole world with one finger” (一指压天下) or “Farming and reading in the mountains” (山林耕读), whom I have introduced before^[153] and will introduce more later. In a time span of 25 minutes, this guy posted at least 13 comments on Ms. Yao's post, and the following one he posted 10 times:

“Sister Yao, I didn't realize that your quality is this poor! Fang Zhouzi is now hoping Han Han's lawsuit! The question is whether Han the fake god dares to sue.”^[165]

历史的正名 ★ 情:不要脸的臭婊子! (2012-1-27 19:04)

“Standing up for science”

Fang’s ScieNazi thugs flood Ms. Yao Chen’s microblog with dirtiest words they could ever think of.

2. Standing-up against the ScieNazis

The funny thing is, Ms. Yao Chen, like Ms. Hu Ling, didn’t back down from her position a tiny bit. In the evening of Jan. 27, 2012, she posted the following message:

“If a man quarrels with a stone, who will win?”^[166]

Two days later, she posted another one:

“Light and darkness do not merge with each other.”^[167]

On Feb. 2, Ms. Yao reposted a PowerPoint file made by Mr. Zhang Zhi (张志, web ID 秋叶, Autumn leaf), a faculty member at Wuhan Institute of Technology, entitled Watch the War between Fang and Han, and Learn How to Think Independently, in which Fang’s various vicious and evil tactics used against Han Han were analyzed and summarized^[168]:

1. Take a predetermined position;

2. Use short microblog messages to play the emotional card, use long-microblog analyses to play the rational card;
3. Rapidly change to the next proposition when the previous one has not concluded yet, making the general public unable to think thoroughly, thus they have to believe his entire logic and conclusions;
4. Use the authenticity of a proposition to imply the authenticity of another proposition, even though the two propositions don't necessarily have logical connection;
5. Use the reasons for the questioning as the evidence to make conclusions;
6. Selectively shield off different opinions;
7. Put labels on his opponents;
8. Disregard legal procedure; rather, resort to the power of various news media.

There was an interesting episode in these few days. Probably on Jan. 28, Ms. Yao began to follow Dr. Sun Haifeng, a famous Fang-hater, on her weibo account. That katoey Du Lei announced the news immediately after he noticed Ms. Yao's move:

“The person who is most recently followed by Yao Chen is Sun Haifeng, could Yi Ming be the next one? Will Xiao Chuanguo be followed also?”^[169]

Fang's comment on the news:

“Fang-haters of all countries, unite again!”^[170]

The capital crime in Fang's ScieNazi Empire

Probably on Jan. 28, 2012, Ms. Yao Chen added Dr. Sun Haifeng, one of the most active Fang-haters on weibo.com, to her friend circle on weibo.com. 129 minutes past the midnight, Du Lei (inset picture) announced his newest discovery, and posted the screenshot of Ms. Yao Chen's most recent friends. 20 hours later, Fang reposted Du's message, proclaiming Yao a Fang-hater.

3. Fighting Back

The big play occurred on Feb. 3. In the early morning of that day, Han Han posted an article entitled The Third of February, intended to be his closing statement on the ghostwriting allegation. Ms. Zhang Xin, the CEO of SOHO China, made the following comment on Han Han's article:

"Reading Han Han's closing speech makes people want to cry. Whether it is the Han Han who used to be edgy, or the Han Han who is currently in a low mood, he always has his distinct charisma. Han Han says: 'Having experienced the incident, I understand many things, I'll use all kind of works, whether they are racing, writing, or anything else, to let my friends feel proud of having such a friend as me. <http://t.cn/zOhxySi>'"^[171]

Ms. Yao added:

"Hehe, I have been thinking all along that this incident is an examination question given to Han Han by the fate. Although the process is intricate and difficult, the good thing is that he has found the answer. I hope that after the stormy incident, everything will be bright and smooth."^[172]

In The Third of February, there was the following sentence:

"Because Fang Zhouzi has threatened to punish each one of those people and media who have supported me, so if Fang Zhouzi wants to revenge on them later, I'll do my best to help them; on the other hand, when Fang Zhouzi wants to accuse other private citizens of fraud, I believe that many people will no longer believe him, just like me."^[173]

One "young scholar" who calls himself "Absalom" (押沙龙) asked:

"It really scares me, when did Fang Zhouzi issue the threat? How come I haven't noticed that?"^[174]

Six minutes later, he added:

"If he has really said so, then this person is too evil."^[175]

Many internet users assured "Absalom" that Fang had indeed issued such threat for multiple times, and among them was Ms. Yao Chen:

"He has indeed said so, the fact is, I didn't know Fang and Han at all; however, I couldn't hold back [my opinion], so I said something about the matter only, didn't name the names. Unexpectedly, Fang was extremely excited, bit me several times, he also reposted an article insulting me. A doctorate with such a terrible character is not trustworthy."^[176]

Of course Ms. Yao Chen's comment, which was posted only as a comment so it didn't show up on her homepage, incurred another round of attacks from the Fangangsters. Here is a comment by an extremely vicious female Fangangster Li Yanying (李艳英, web ID 只看晚霞) who posted at least 6 comments cursing Ms. Yao:

"Fuck! I used to like Yao Chen very much, now I have seen her true colors, she is nothing but a mentally handicapped clown."^[177]

Here is a comment by a Luo Wei (罗炜 Nowe) who also posted six comments scolding Ms. Yao:

“A whore has no heart, a Xizi has no soul, and Yao Chen has no brain.”^[178]

Here is a comment by a “Follow each other, if you follow me I’ll definitely follow you, otherwise my dad dies” (互加关注有粉必回不回死爹):

“How come a Xizi like Yao Chen who has neither boobs nor brain became the Queen of Microblog? By spending money on purchasing zombie fans?”^[179]

Here is a comment by a “Handsome Aaron” (帅帅 aaron):

“It is understandable if a Xizi could not control her underneath mouth, however, if she could not control her upper mouth either, it becomes annoying!”^[180]

Without an exception, all these thugs changed their web IDs later.

4. The Old Clubs in Action

However, what differentiates the second round fight between Ms. Yao Chen and the Fangangsters from the first one is that almost every member of Fang’s Old Man Clubs jumped out. For example, katoey Du Lei posted 11 comments, pestering both Yao Chen and “Absalom.” Another Fang’s old club, Mr. Zhao Nanyuan (born 1946), a retired professor at Tsinghua University and has been Fang’s follower since 2000, posted 3 comments under a fake web ID “Arakawa’s scar” (荒川围脖). Even Mr. Liang Ke (NKLiang), a mathematics professor at Nankai University, and a deputy Dean of the School of Mathematical Sciences of the same university from 2003 to 2013, could not help joining in.

So, what did they say? Mainly two things, the first is to deny the fact that Fang had issued the threat. This is Du Lei’s first comment on Absalom’s “If he has really said so, then this person is too evil”:

“If [Fang] hasn’t really said so, then Han Han is too evil.”^[181]

And Professor Liang Ke followed the katoey immediately:

“If Uncle Han says that Han Han didn’t say so, then Absalom is too bad.”^[182]

Here is the comment by a person who has been Fang’s friend since late 1990s^[183], but has been hiding his true identity with a fake ID “For books all my life” (为书一生):

“It must be a rumor, right? Fang has no personal enmity towards Han, he has [personal enmity] only towards Principal Luo.”^[184]

Another Fang’s old club who jumped out was Mr. Zhang Zhaojin (张兆晋), a senior editor with Posts & Telecommunications Press at time and the person who has been Fang’s personal editor since early 2000s and defended Fang’s plagiarism in 2011^[185], posted the following comment:

“The Big Mouth Yao is really a big mouth with a small brain.”^[186]

Here is the first comment by another secret Fang-lover who would post a total of 15 comments on Absalom’s post under a fake ID “Punch the old master to death with fists” (乱拳搞死老师傅) but later changed to “Sweet potato bear No. 3” (地瓜熊老三):

“As a rational supporter of Fang Zhouzi, I verify that there is really no such a thing.”^[187]

And then he threatened Yao Chen:

“In which microblog Fang Zhouzi said so? Please list the evidence. Otherwise I’ll report to Sina.”^[188]

This is Ms. Yao’s response to the threat:

“Report? Haha, you’d better first report your master’s defamation of other people.”^[189]

Obviously, Fang’s habitual revenges in the past dozen years and his repeated threats issued against his enemies as well as their family members and employers, either explicitly or implicitly, such as “thump,” “to be buried together with Han Han,” were not enough to demonstrate that Fang had indeed threatened to punish every one of Han Han’s supporters. The fact is, just a few days earlier, Fang made the following threat to Mr. Liu Xiaofeng, a teacher of the New Oriental English School:

“A renowned teacher at the New Oriental even spreads such a clumsy rumor, aren’t you afraid that I’ll fix you after I have fixed Luo Yonghao?”^[190]

The “rumor” spread by Mr. Liu was that Fang had hired a team to manage his Weibo account, mainly in charge of blocking any people who disagree with Fang, but Fang hadn’t paid them for almost one year (the story is told below). Although that “rumor” was not related to Han Han directly, the threatening nature of the above post is beyond any doubts. In other words, the Fangangsters, as well as their master Fang himself, are capable of denying Fang’s evildoing while Fang is doing it.

As having already mentioned before^[191], Du had been, and still is, pretending to be a female internet user who also supports Fang Zhouzi. A few days before the second round battle against Ms. Yao Chen, Du was questioned by Mr. Wang Jiamin (web ID Ma Rila) whether he was Fang’s wife Liu Juhua, and Du never answered the question directly. The encounter was mentioned again by an internet user under Absalom’s post^[192], and Yao seemed to believe it, so she talked to “Absalom” again:

“I have just learned by reading a comment on your post by an internet user that the blog article targeting me was posted by his wife. I thought it was by an average internet user. It is really horrible; the couple is both like this!”^[193]

And here was katoey Du’s response:

“Thank you for believing Ma Rila!!!”^[194]

Then Zhao Nanyuan jumped out, laughing at Yao’s mistake^[195]. Then came Fang, who must have been watching the battle closely and waiting for Ms. Yao’s missteps patiently, reposted Du’s message almost immediately, with the following comment:

“Even the ‘Queen of Microblog’ believes that Sansi Kenan is my wife, Sina should add the certificate mark V [to Du’s Weibo account].”^[196]

Fang’s reposting generated more than 2 thousand comments, and like his other anti-Han posts, most comments on this one are negative. And as usual, Fang’s water army came to rescue. For example, a “Midnight Erguotou” (午夜二锅头, Erguotou is a brand of hard liquor) posted the following comment 9 times in 63 minutes:

“[She is] really The Big Mouth Yao, all the rumors and gossips [about her] have been generated by herself.”^[197]

That “Follow each other, if you follow me I’ll definitely follow you, otherwise my dad dies” posted 26 messages in less than an hour, mainly making dialogues with his water army buddies or attacking Han’s supporters. For example, a Fang-lover, who later disappeared altogether from weibo.com, posted the following laudatory comment:

“Fang Zhouzi, you are the backbone of Chinese people. You are a national hero. As a Chinese with conscience I salute you! Everyone with a feeling for justice is supporting you! I support you forever. Those people who attack you are shameful! They are the scum of the nation!”^[198]

And this “Follow me……,” who would change his web ID to “equality” (均等) later, praised the moron:

“To some people, what you have just said sounds exaggerated, however, people in the future will know that Mr. Fang is indeed the contemporary Lu Xun.”^[198]

However, the most diligent soldier in Fang’s fight against Ms. Yao Chen must be a “Schwinger” (施温格) who posted more than a hundred comments, defending for everything Fang had done. For example, an internet user used Fang’s threat against Mr. Liu Xiaofeng, “aren’t you afraid that I’ll fix you after I have fixed Luo Yonghao?” to demonstrate that Fang was indeed going “to punish each one of those people and media who have supported” Han Han. And here is the “Schwinger’s” defense:

“Which part of [Fang’s] post indicates the idea of ‘each one’? Do you think it is technically practical [to punish] ‘each one’? Instead of agreeing with Fang Zhouzi’s logical argument, you defy logic and interpret [his argument] promiscuously, are you ashamed of yourself?”^[199]

The other person argued:

“Fixing this one after having fixed that one, doesn’t it mean each one?”^[200]

“Schwinger,” who claims that he was trained in physics and teaches at a university, replied:

“Fixing this one after having fixed that one’ is a total of two, do you know how to count?”^[200]

You have to admire these thugs’ shamelessness.

It was under the attacks by the Fangangsters that Ms. Yao Chen stopped talking about Han Han for 2 and half years. Fang’s tactic worked again.

There were several reasons for Fang’s Old Man Clubs to come out in force to fight the second round war against Ms. Yao Chen, and one of them was that by that time, Feb. 3, 2012, Fang’s complete defeat in the Hanly War had essentially been guaranteed, and these old thugs were desperate to save Fang from the disaster. Another reason was the internal disorder among the Fangangsters. Before I tell that story, let me finish Fang’s “thump” campaign first.

Fang Zhouzi's Old Man Clubs

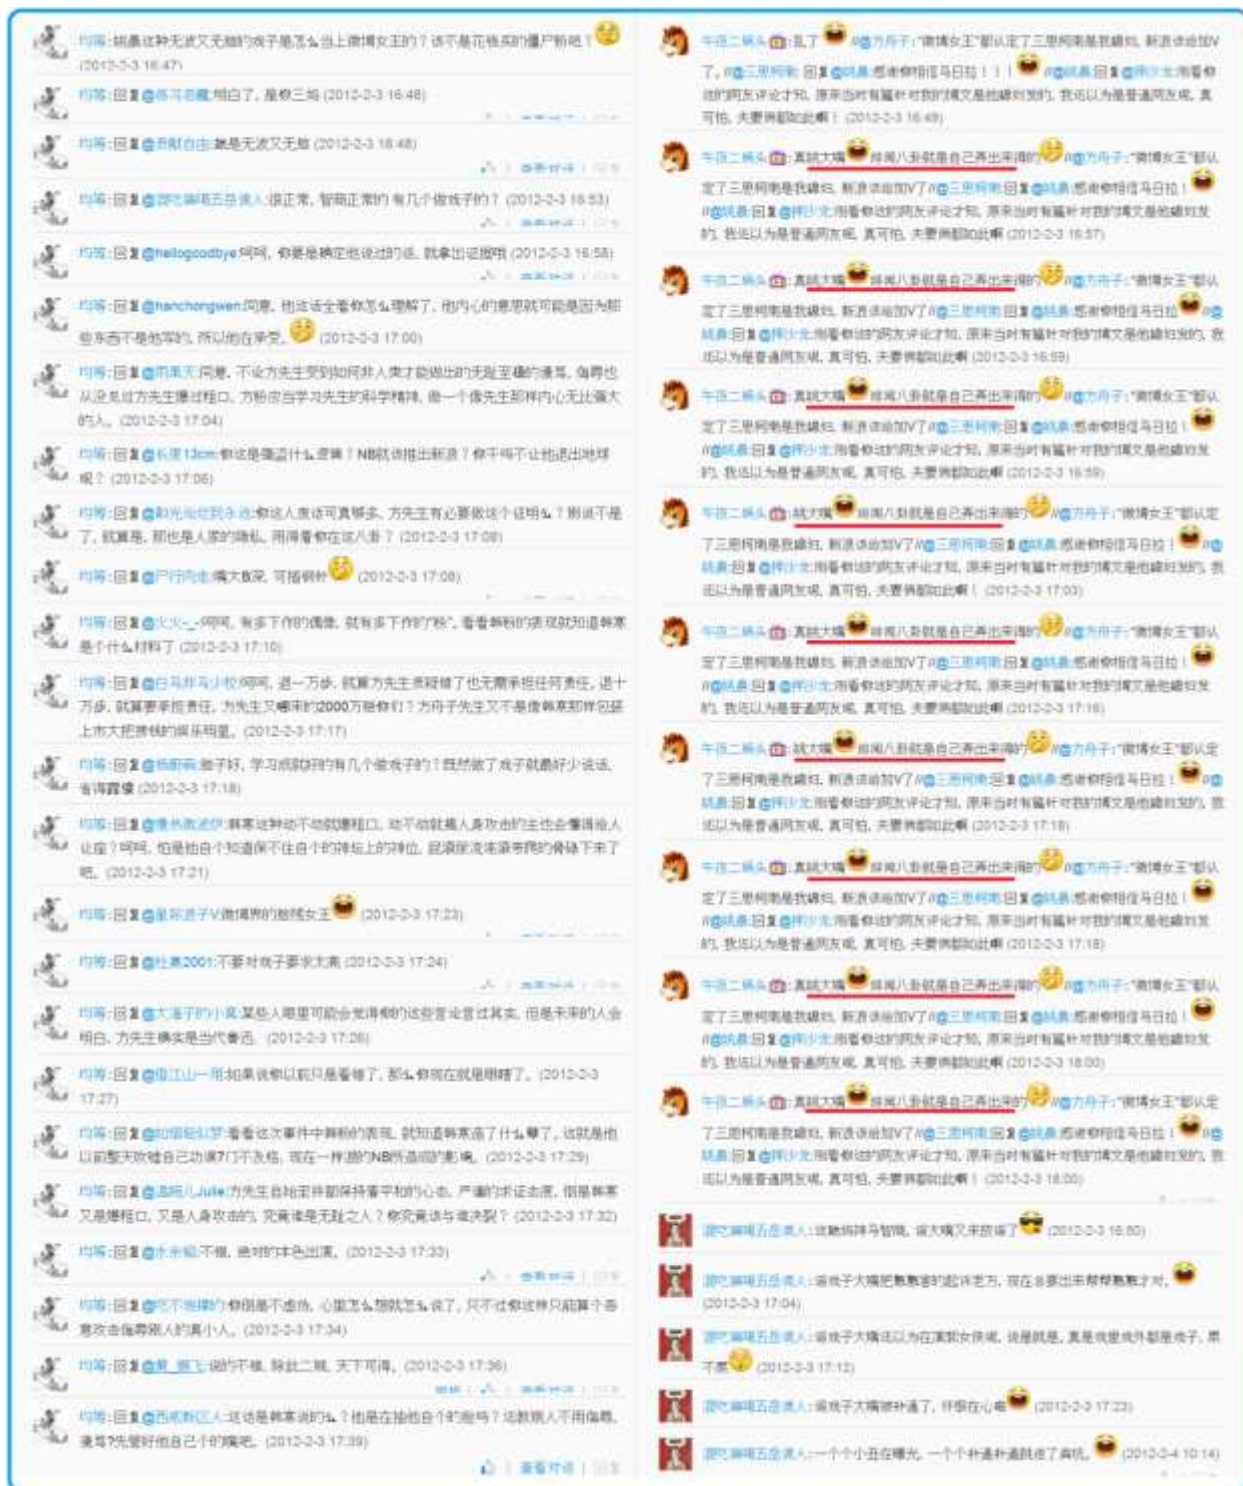

On Feb. 3, 2012, Fang's Old Man Clubs, all in their 50s or 60s, and all but one behind a mask, jumped on Ms. Yao Chen for the sole reason that she expressed her opinion in favor of Han Han. The above image is a composite of the screenshots showing their comments on Absalom's post and Yao's comments (2012-2-3 14:44). The people in the image are (from left clockwise) Du Lei under a fake female ID Sansi Kenan; Professor Liang Ke under a semi-fake ID NKLiAng; Professor Zhao Nanyuan under a fake ID "Arakawa's scarf," and Senior Editor Zhang Zhaojin, who uses his real name on the internet.

Fang Zhouzi's Detachment of Women

Two female Fang-lovers attacked Ms. Yao Chen viciously and vehemently, for the only reason that she supported Han Han. Even though they both used masks, their true identities are known: the person to the left revealed her own name before the attack, and the person to the right was identified after the attack. The above image is a composite of the screenshots of their comments on Absalom's post and Yao's comments (2012-2-3 14:44). The personal images were posted by themselves on their microblogs. Please note that the two photos on the right are Ms. Li Yanying and Fang, and Ms. Wang Yanhong, a reporter with Xinhua News Agency and a long-term Fang-lover, "Dr." Albert Yuan, and Ms. Li Yanying.

Flooding their own backyard

The above images show that Fang's water army was trying to rescue their master from an ocean of internet users' mouth water under Fang's post (2012-2-3 16:42). The identities of the posters are indicated by the avatars they were using and the web IDs (blue characters next to the avatars), and red underlines indicates the contents of these characters are exactly the same.

“A Transgenic Weasel”

On Jan. 27, less than 2 hours before Fang’s announcing that Ms. Yao Chen had thumped, Mr. He Sanpo, an author, posted an article on his blog, entitled: Fang Zhouzi, a Transgenic Weasel. It was actually an unpublished interview. Here is the dialogue about the Hanly War:

Reporter: “In the war on sina blogs, the fight between Han Han and Fang Zhouzi has become stalemated, people found that Han Han’s logical ability is not as good as Fang Zhouzi’s. An idol is going to collapse, what do you think about the fight?”

He Sanpo: “Have you heard of an animal called honey badger? It is a kind of weasels in African grasslands, its body is small; when facing a man, it would attack his testicles. It is super strong, able to kill crocodiles; even a leopard or lion is unable to subdue it. Its most horrible tactic is that even if it only bites into your shoes, it will never let you go. Such a God-made talent does not differ from [what used by] Dr. Fang Zhouzi very much. Based on a few hearsays, relied upon a few iron-clad teeth, [he] is able to demonstrate that a person doesn’t exist. The funny thing is, such a transgenic head keeps swaggering, it is really a wonder rarely seen in thousands of years.

“[He] won’t bite the Red Cross, won’t bite [the issue of] cooking oil recovered from sewerage, won’t bite the accident of the train crash, won’t bite the China Backbone [scandal], won’t bite [the problems in] Sichuan disaster donations. He actually bites the talent of a writer; furthermore, his biting lasts from the old year to the new one, and he is proud of his biting.

“What’s the usefulness of logic ability? It cannot demonstrate that a weasel is a human being. Lu Xun said a long time ago: Fighters with shortcomings are after all fighters and the perfect flies are also nothing more than flies.

“Obviously, Han Han’s talent in writing novels is not outstanding among his generation; his viewpoints on democracy and freedom are not as good as those expressed on weibo.com by Li Chengpeng and Wang Xiaoshan. However, his courage to express his opinion on public events is rarely seen in China. Especially the Han’s Trio at the end of last year, it likes that a stone was thrown into a pool of stagnant water, generating a shower of echoes. Although I don’t agree completely with him, I sincerely admire such courage. If every one of Chinese intellectuals has such courage, this country will be respectful. If all the kids of the post-1980 generation have such courage, this country will have future.”^[201]

Mr. He’s article was praised by many people. Mr. Liao Weitang (廖伟棠), a Hong Kong-based writer and poet, commented:

“My position is the same as He Sanpo’s.”^[202]

Mr. Hai Jie (海杰), a writer, reposted Mr. Liao’s comment to show his agreement. And Mr. Que Daohua (阙道华), a journalist with Yangcheng Evening News, commented:

“It is because that Fang has no other options, he has to find himself something to do.”^[203]

Ms. Xu Chen (许琛), another journalist with Yangcheng Evening News, commented:

“There are too many people who are trying to kick up a fuss, and they have aroused Fang already.”^[204]

At 7:58 PM, Jan. 27, 2012, less than two hours after announcing that Ms. Yao Chen had thumped, Fang pushed these five people into his gigantic hole altogether:

“Thump, thump, thump, thump, thump, thump,’ the string of sounds is really euphonious, you guys help me to count.”^[205]

It was a definite signal for his water army to launch an attack on these people. Remember that filthy mouth “Besides Brother Bridge there is no other brother”? Here is his comment posted 9 minutes after Fang’s:

“He Sanpo, a moron produced by the intercourse between near relatives. I don’t know whether Mr. He feels the pleasure by listen to what I have just said.”^[206]

Remember that “Midnight Erguotou”? He posted 11 comments in 15 minutes, with the same content, and the first was posted 11 minutes after Fang’s:

“Like a group of penguins jump into the water, the penguins in the front do not want to jump, but are forcefully pushed into the water.”^[207]

The funny thing is, this Fang-lover managed to send the message directly to three of the other four people who were “thumped” by Fang Zhouzi, apparently trying to threaten them (see the screenshots below).

Another Fangangster, “9u9e,” posted the following message 3 times in 5 minutes; the first one was posted 10 minutes after Fang’s:

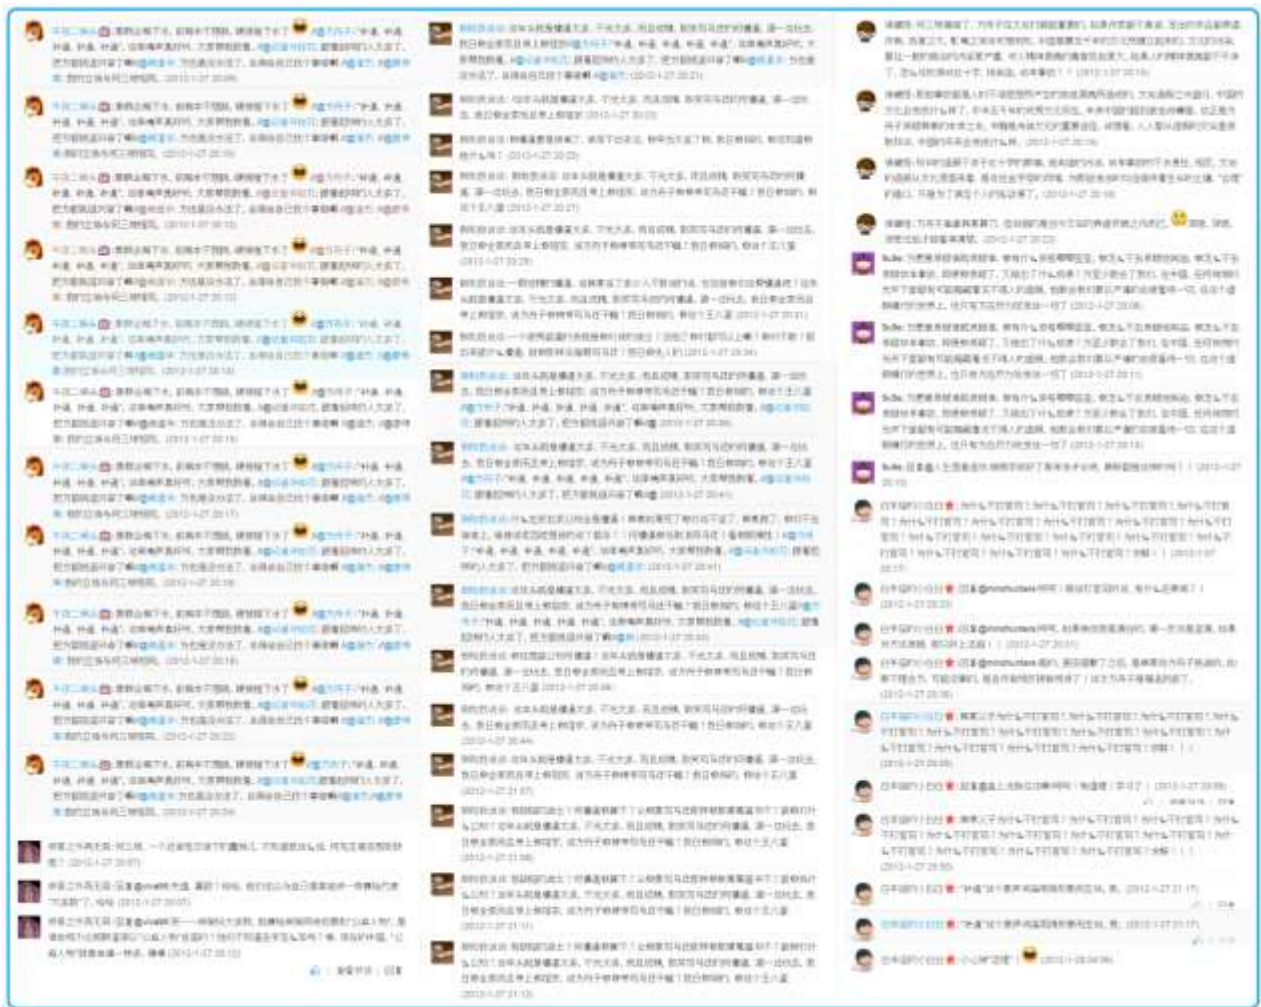

“Whomever Fang likes to question [he should be allowed to] question whomever, what kind qualification do you have to talk about it? Why don’t you question [the issue of] cooking oil recovered from sewerage? Why don’t you question the train crash accident? Even if you might have questioned, what kind of achievements have you obtained? Fang at least taught us that in China a shameful fraud can be hidden under any kind of brilliant aura, he taught us to treat everything with a rigorous attitude. In the world filled with frauds, only Fang is doing his best to change everything.”^[208]

Of course, these Fangangsters didn’t have the guts to post their messages on their homepages, even once.

The “Most Diligent Fighter Award” in this campaign should be given to a “Don’t talk to me” (别和我说话), he posted 20 comments in 64 minutes, the first one was posted 20 minutes after Fang’s “thump” announcement. And among the 20 messages, the following content was repeated 15 times:

“Nowadays, there are too many idiots, [the problem is] not only there are too many, but also they have evolved into demons. The Idiot He who laughs at Sima Qian, go to hell, I fuck your whole family plus your ancestors. Why did you mention Sima Qian when you were talking about Fang Zhouzi? I fuck your mother, you bastard.”^[209]

Expectedly, none of his comments appeared on his homepage.

Flood of abusive languages by Fang's water army

Minutes after Fang announced that five more people had “thumped,” Fang’s water army began to post repetitive and abusive comments. The above image is a composite of the screenshots of some of these posts, which have been partially translated above.

The Final Thumps

Before the Hanly War, I had said the following many times:

“To a Chinese scholar, it is a misfortune to live in the same era with the thugs of New Threads; and it is a shame that we belong to the same race.”^[210]

And the Hanly War is a perfect evidence to demonstrate my correctness.

1. A Shameful Era

On Jan. 27, 2012, 12 days after the outbreak of the Hanly War, Mr. Han Renjun, Han Han’s father, posted a lengthy article, Talking about Myself, explaining why he could not be Han Han’s ghostwriter. Here is his introduction to the article:

“Recently, many people have been saying that I possess a magical and supernatural power, writing Triple Door and Glimpsing Human’s Nature through a Cup of Water for Han Han, manipulating national New Concept Writing Competition, and even being the Director of the Propaganda Department of Shanghai. It is for this reason I have written an article about myself, which is a little lengthy and wordy, sorry about that. I have also attached the stories I published in 1999 for you to read and compare. The article explains everything clearly; welcome all kinds of incriminatory words.”^[211]

Dr. Liu Yu’s comment on the post was: “Heart broken.”^[212] Dr. Liu’s comment was reposted by Mr. Wu Jinghui (吴京辉), a journalist, and another journalist Mr. Chen Mo (陈默) added:

“Take care, write what you want to say, nobody could harm you.”^[213]

After being reposted by Mr. Xu Wenguang (许文广), a TV program producer and actor, Ms. Wang Lifen (王利芬), a CCTV hostess and an entrepreneur made the following comment on the string of posts:

“Han Han is a young man in our era who has the characteristics of independent thinking and being able to express it. Independent thinking is a rare resource in our time, so I think he is an excellent youth; meanwhile, he has the independent character shared by the majority of the intellectuals, and the intelligence of an adult.”^[214]

63 minutes after Ms. Wang’s comment, at 9:49 PM, Fang reposted Han Renjun’s post, plus the five comments, with the following comment:

“Five thumps.”^[215]

It was Fang’s first thump without quotation marks and his last thump announcement. It was also Fang’s only miscalculated thumps: he obviously forgot that Dr. Liu Yu had already been thumped by him earlier that day.

Why did Fang make these mistakes, and why would he stop counting? The answer to the first question is that his own backyard was on fire (see below), and the answer to the second one is this: not only because his threat and his water army scared nobody any more, but also because that these tactics became jokes. Indeed, it became really difficult to find Fang’s water army in the ocean of negative comments on Fang’s idiotic “thumps.” An “Offshore boat” (离岸的小船), who, as of now (January 10, 2015), is following 181 accounts, but only is followed by 80 accounts, and having only 3 messages on her homepage, posted the following message 5 times within 8 minutes:

“Many people even don’t take a look at Old Fang’s evidence-based reasonable questionings, they simply let their dogs get loose and bite people. Old Fang, be strong, hold on, behind you there are hundreds and thousands of people who are supporting you quietly, although we are not as crazy and noisy as those Han-lovers or Luo-lovers!”^[216]

A Zheng Banqiao (正版乔), who has only 29 followers and 139 messages on his homepage with the last one posted on 2012-3-23, posted the following comment 3 times within 3 minutes:

“[Have you noticed that] the direction of the wind has changed? Han Han’s boosters are starting to change the topic from discussing whether Han Han has committed fraud to touting the social value Han Han has. [It means that they] are vaccinating the Han-lovers. (This is what I wrote yesterday; now Lu the Golden Pig [Lu Jinbo] is propagandizing the theory that Fang Zhouzi is a terrorist.)”^[217]

2. A Pair of Anti-Han Army “Marshals”

Although some of Fang’s water army soldiers I identified above did post sporadically in the battle of “Five Thumps,” it is noticeable that they were in extreme low spirits. As a matter of fact, most of Fang’s Old Man Clubs didn’t show up in the battle, except for Dr. Xiao Ying, a Fang-lover whom I have described previously as “an ‘aesthetician’ who defended for Liu Juhua’s plagiarism and a professor who framed his own student”^[218]. Dr. Xiao, who was one of the earliest academics who openly attacked Han Han, posted at least four comments after Fang’s “Five thumps” announcement, and he deleted all of them later. Here they are:

“This is a masturbating era when only idol, but not the truth, is needed.”^[219]

“Only after having seen those celebrities’ crying foul for ‘Han Han’ in the ‘five thumps’ that I realize that the idol value of ‘Han Han’ is an expensive consumption. Fan Bingbing’s 20-million reward was offered a little too hasty.”^[220]

“【A pig which makes publishers sad】 Publisher Lu Jinbo wrote that he regards Fang Zhouzi, who is fully involved in analyzing Han Han’s works, ‘a dung beetle. His work is looking for shit everywhere.’ If so, isn’t the ‘Genius Han Han,’ who has been being defended by Mr. Lu Jinbo, just a pile of shit in Lu’s mind? Of course, it is a pig’s logic, no wonder Lu Jinbo calls himself Lu Jin Pig right now.”^[221]

“【The only way to decide the winner: TV live broadcasting, Fang Zhouzi assigning the topic on the spot, and Han Han writing an essay [on the topic] on the spot, Sina Net announcing [the result], and the internet users making comments.】—— To the ‘Man-made Han Han’ who could only be seen clearly but could not be explained convincingly, both sides, Fang and Han, have entered into a stalemate. If such a situation continues, the only result will be that there are dead people, but there won’t be a winner.”^[222]

Xiao Ying’s “only way” proposal was actually a modified version of what proposed by Ms. Peng Xiaoyun, one of the most vicious and evil Han-haters, and obviously for that reason, she was on the top of the Ten Marshals of the anti-Han Army – Xiao was ranked No. 3^[223]. What Marshal Peng proposed on Jan. 27, 2012, was as following:

“A very simple method: the readers as consumers sue both Han Han and his father of commercial fraud, and then the judicial and criminal investigation authority uses the means such as lie detector to examine them, then they either convict them or exonerate them, clean their names.”^[224]

Marshal Peng’s viciousness and evilness provoked a huge public outcry, and she deleted her post immediately. And that’s why Marshal Xiao Ying proposed his “The only way to decide the winner.” It seems that the two Marshals, as well as their master Fang Zhouzi, had never realized that they have absolutely no authority or rights to invade into Mr. Han Han’s private domain.

The funny thing is, a few days later, Marshal Peng was exposed as a plagiarist and she would be convicted by a committee 10 months later^[225]. And Marshal Xiao, the pretentious truth-seeker, revealed his true colors in a month: when an open letter signed by 154 scholars around the world was made public in late February 2012, calling for Chinese authority to investigate Liu Juhua’s plagiarism scandal, Xiao reacted frantically by defending Ms. Liu and attacking ferociously those who signed the letter, including his former student Sun Haifeng^[218]. It seems that he doesn’t care about the truth after all - all he cared about is “to decide the winner.”

A rogue professor

Xiao Ying, an aesthetics professor at Tsinghua University, was the most vicious assailant in China's academic community against Han Han during the Hanly War, although he has never presented any evidence to demonstrate that Han Han's writings were ghostwritten. As a matter of fact, Xiao acknowledged that there is no way to “restore the truth”^[226]. Nonetheless, Xiao did his best to attack Han Han, to attack those who signed an open letter asking the Graduate School of Chinese Academy of Social Sciences to investigate the plagiarism committed by Fang's wife Liu Juhua, and Xiao explicitly defended Liu's plagiarism.

很简单的办法, 读者作为消费者起诉韩氏父子涉嫌商业欺诈, 由司法刑侦用测谎仪等手段检验, 或证实欺诈或为韩氏父子洗清, 还其清誉。若不受理, 则作为消费者运动, 要求有关机构调查。那些不看目前已很完整的证据链就因这场质疑漫长而不耐烦或因派别立场而假装宽容的人, 让人觉得极虚伪。

An evil woman

On Jan. 27, 2012, Ms. Peng Xiaoyun, a journalist and a commentator, proposed a “simple method” to decide whether Han Han had committed fraud: let Chinese authority use criminal investigation approaches on Han Han and his father. The proposal was so notorious that Peng deleted the post immediately; however, the screenshot of the post was captured by other people.

Marshal Peng Xiaoyun of the Anti-Han Han Army is a convicted plagiarist

On Nov. 23, 2012, Ms. Peng Xiaoyun filed a complaint with weibo.com against an internet user who called her “a habitual plagiarist.” After examining the evidence presented by the defendant, a 14-members committee convened by the Management Center of Weibo Community dismissed Peng’s complaint. The above image is the screenshot of the webpage, showing Peng’s complaint, the defendant’s evidence, and the committee’s decision.

Fang's listless water army in the final battle of the "Thump Campaign"

VANCL Became “FUCKCL”

As many people have pointed out already, the cause of Fang’s vicious and combatant nature is his extreme jealousy: he simply could not withstand the fact that other people are more successful than he is. And among the things which irritate him every single day, the most intolerable one is the financial wealth his enemies have accumulated. Accordingly, VANCL, a leading internet-based apparel retailer which hired Han Han as one of their spokespersons in 2010, was attacked by Fang and his vicious gangsters during the Hanly War.

On Jan. 19, 2012, the second day after Fang’s entering into the Hanly War, the katoey Du Lei posted on his Weibo a poster he created by distorting one of VANCL’s commercial advertisements which used Han Han as its spokesman for a line of T-shirts. In the post, katoey Du imitated the so called VANCL’s writing style to mock Han Han’s dislike of schooling, his typos, and his sharing of the password of his blog with his friends^[227]. Eight hours later, Fang reposted Du’s post with a VANCL-style comment:

“Love to swear love to offer reward love to delete posts and also love Latin.”^[228]

Target: VANCL

By reposting thug Du’s post, Fang was sending a signal to his water army: Attack VANCL!

The reason for the katoey Du to attack Vancl appeared to be that one day earlier, Mr. Chen Nian (陈年), the founder and CEO of Vancl, expressed his support for Han Han. Initially, the Sina Blog recommended Han Han’s A Normal Essay; then the official Weibo account of the Sina Blog, “Top Blog” (头条博客), announced the news on weibo.com, and it cited particularly the paragraph in which Han Han refuted Fang’s “Offering a heavy monetary reward [for evidence] on one hand, and destroying the evidence at the same time on the other” (the story have been told in ^[131]). Mr. Chen Tong, the editor-in-chief of Sina Network, was among the first people who made a comment on the post:

“Support Han Han! The article is very readable.”^[229]

And Mr. Chen Nian made the following comment on Mr. Chen Tong’s comment:

“I don't know what to say.”^[230]

About one hour later, Mr. Chen Nian posted his second comment:

“Not long ago I had a chance to have a long chat with Han Han, he said that on many matters we are unable to do anything, however, the least we can do is to require ourselves to start with good intentions. I think it is right. We are unable to guess the intentions of these rumormongers, but we are able to constrain our own intentions and behaviors.”^[231]

The original sin committed by VANCL

Mr. Chen Nian, the founder of Vancl, expressed his firm support for Han Han on the day when Fang entered the Hanly War. The above image is the screenshot of Mr. Chen's post, translated above^[231].

Of course, Fang Zhouzi interpreted Mr. Chen Tong's comment as “publicly expressed his unequivocal support for Han Han's personal attack on me,” and he used the opportunity to spread the rumor that Han Han's wife is an editor with Sina^[232]. Although many people, including Mr. Luo Yonghao and Mr. Yao Bo, warned Chen Tong that Fang's attack on him was imminent^[233], he escaped the disaster when Fang “vindicated” him because the Sina Blog recommended Fang's Reply to Han Han on the next day. However, Vancl and Mr. Chen Nian were not that lucky.

As you have seen, the katoey Du is the most vicious and diligent bloodhound of Fang's: he has been always the first person who finds Fang's new enemies, and begins his deadly bite at the same time. Therefore, his distorted Vancl ad constituted the retaliatory response by the Fangangsters to Mr. Chen Nian's support for Han Han.

Although Mr. Chen Nian's post was commented on for more than one hundred times, no comments were made in the 50 hours after Fang reposted Du's post. The only plausible explanation to this is that his post was flooded with the abusive comments from the Fangangsters and they were deleted by Mr. Chen Nian. However, there are still some vestiges of the flood left. A Woabobo, who has posted more than 2 thousand messages on his homepage on weibo.com, but has only 15 followers, made the following two comments:

“In the War between Fang and Han, the biggest loser is VANCL.....Hurry up to sign Fang Zhouzi, he has never lost.”^[234]

“VANCL wasted so much money on a genius as its spokesman, however, he is a fake.....VANCL is going to say good-bye to Han Han.....I did not expect that it would happen so soon.”^[235]

Here are 3 messages by a Xianxia Xiaowenzi (仙霞小文子):

“Boycott any products represented by Han Han, the intelligence of the mass cannot be insulted like this!!”^[236]

“Why don’t you sue Han the illiterate?”^[237]

“Suggest to you that you let Jeremy Lin to be your spokesman, Han Han the faker has dragged you down.”^[238]

The thing is, under the continuous attacks by Fang’s water army, VANCL renewed their contract with Han Han on April 3, 2012. Fang, whose love for seeing his enemies’ failure is just as intense as his hate for seeing his enemies’ success, went complete nuts. He first posted the following message, obviously trying to instigate his followers to boycott VANCL:

“VANCL promotes their products by advertising ‘Support Han Han,’ which means that they regard every one of their consumers as Han Han’s supporter, [are they] planning to do business with Han-lovers only?”^[239]

Minutes later, Fang reposted a message by the ardent Han-hater, “Sweet potato bear No. 3” (地瓜熊老三), and another one by a person who has since disappeared from weibo.com, saying “Let’s boycott together,” with the following comment:

“[I’ve] heard that some people are going to boycott VANCL, after reading carefully, it is Bothering Customers.”^[240] 【Note: VANCL’s Chinese name is 凡客, pronounced Fán kè, meaning a normal guest or customer. Han-haters replaced the first character with a homophone, 烦, which means bothering or annoy.】

The Han-hater’s post contains a slogan, “Boycott the liar’s endorsement, boycott the false advertising”^[241], and an image, which is a malicious practical joke on VANCL’s commercial featuring Han Han.

Maliciousness

Upper: VANCL's advertisement, the words on the right are VANCL-style slogans, which read:

Love the internet, love the freedom,
Love to wake up late, love the food stalls in the evening,
Love car racing, also love the T-shirt of ¥ 29,
I am not a standard-bearer of any kind,
I am not a spokesman of anybody,
I am Han Han,
I represent myself only. I am the same as you,
I am VANCL.

Lower: the modified version of the ad by "Sweet potato bear No. 3," an extreme Han-hater, in which not only the logo VANCL was changed to FUCKCL, the price was changed from 29 to 250, which in Chinese means an idiot, but also the slogans was distorted:

Love to lie, love to quit school,
Love to use ghostwriters, love to peep female students' dorm in the nights;
Love daughter, also love to swear and curse by daughter,
I am not a genius of any kind,
I am not a son of anybody,
I am a liar,
I represent myself only. I am the same as you,
I am Bothering Customers.

Again, Mr. Chen Nian's microblog was flooded by Fang's water army. It seemed that by that time Mr. Chen had already got used to these thugs, so these malicious and evil comments are preserved. A person who calls himself "China's reformer" (中国的改良派) and has a grand total of 9 posts on his homepage, made 23 comments on Mr. Chen's repost of a VANCL's commercial. Here are some of them:

"Fuck your mother, Chen Cun, you are still using the idiot Han Han, go to hell."^[242] 【Note: Chen Cun is a Shanghai-based writer, and one of Fang's archenemies during the early stage of the Hanly War. The water army soldier apparently confused the two Chens.】

“Why does Chen Nian walk together again with Han Han?! Because they are the same, having the stink of money all over their bodies, regardless of truth or fraud, without conscience and responsibility, Chen Nian will also be crucified on the historical pillar of shame.”^[243]

“VANCL has no honest products, whoever wears their products will have bad luck! Wish bastard Chen and Han Han die together!”^[244]

Flood of venom

A self-claimed “China’s reformer” was cursing Han Han and Chen Nian after VANCL renewed their contract with Han Han. He posted 23 abusive comments and he dared not to show any of them on his homepage which, as of January 10, 2015, contains only 9 posts.

Another person who used to call himself “Desert Sunset Glow” (苍漠晚霞) but has since changed to “Purple Lilac” (丁香紫韵) and “Big Lilac Monk” (丁香大和尚), has 19 followers and one 1 post on his homepage, posted 22 comments on Mr. Chen Nian’s repost of VANCL’s commercial. Here is his first one:

“From now on, [I’ll] do my best to appeal to the people around me: Don’t buy any products of VANCL anymore. It is really ironic that a business which disregards the bottom line of social integrity for their commercial interest, calls themselves ‘Eslite.’ It is the omen of the country’s subjugation.”^[245]

Here is his last one:

“[The problem of VANCL] is simply not that they don’t know Han Han; rather, they know Han Han is a liar clearly; however, for the sake of their commercial interest, they disregard social integrity, resolutely associate themselves with a liar. If VANCL was deceived by Liar Han, we can sympathize with them, but VANCL teams with the liar firmly, so we must boycott!”^[246]

A Fangangster “Purple Lilac” attacks VANCL after Fang has sent the signal

Another Fangangster, “Fuck Han Ten Times” (十日韩), who appears to be a female but registered as a male and uses a male avatar, just like that “China’s reformer” who is apparently a male but using a female avatar, “fucked” Chen Nian and his VANCL five times:

“Chen Nian, Sister admired you very much before. However, now your personality has already bankrupted, in my heart you are as shameless as Han the Second, even if you have succeeded, [I’ll] still FUCK YOU!”^[247]

In summary, Mr. Chen Nian’s 4-Chinese-characters repost has a total of 662 comments; more than 50% of them were made by the Fangangsters like the above three, containing curses, scolds, and threats.

In April 2012, Fang posted and reposted numerous messages against VANCL, instigating his followers and Han-haters to play malicious jokes on VANCL’s ads, to label VANCL’s products as counterfeit and shoddy, and to sue VANCL:

“Start to play pranks on Vancl? [Good!] That’s the result it deserves for openly ‘Support Han Han’ in its commercial, which means simply it wants to be the enemy of the many netizens.”^[248]

“Vancl Eslite says that the renewal of their contract with Han Han is ‘a materialized expression of ambition triggered by a shared emotional experience.’ Han Han is questioned for using ghostwriters, he is a fake and counterfeit in the literary community. Vancl shares the emotional experience, is it because they have been questioned whether their products are fake and counterfeit? Talking about ‘materialized expression of ambition,’ have they materialized Han Han?”^[249]

“Vancl Eslite is complained for trademark law violation, this angle [of hurting Vancl] is very original. What they have been doing recently is just the opposite of Eslite.”^[250]

“Citizens are motivated to oppose fraud, and this time no one is saying the action is destruction of public properties.”^[251]

Malicious instigations

Upper left: On April 17, 2012, a thug posted the photo with handwritings, “I cheater” on Han Han’s forehead, “Death in Eighth Route,” which is pronounced similar to Subaru, on the car, “Han Han is a cheater” and “Dare you to buy a Death in Eighth Route car?” in the blank space. Fang reposted the message on the same day with the following comment: “Seeing ‘destruction of public properties’ again”^[252]. Lower left: On April 20, 2012, an internet user posted on his Weibo a VANCL ad with scribbling “Fake, Cheater!” Fang reposted it five hours later with the following comment: “Seeing ‘destruction of public properties’ again”^[253]. Right: On June 9, 2012, a Han-hater posted on his Weibo a VANCL ad with a “cheater” label. The poster’s message was: “Who has destructed public properties!!!!!!!!!!!!!!” Fang reposted the post on the next day with the following comment: “Someone polluted the public properties first”^[254].

And till this day, Fang is still claiming that his anti-Han Han campaign is “to prevent more teenagers from being misled by their idols.” What a shameless liar!

The joke is on the joker

After repeatedly instigating his followers to play practical jokes on VANCL and Han Han, Fang himself became a laughingstock. The above is a modified VANCL ad, depicting Fang, the words read:

No matter how right you are, I'll bite you whatsoever;
 Whether you are right or not right, I am always right;
 Whether you are reasonable or not, I'll bite your throat.
 I am FUCKER.

The Revelation

I have mentioned many times before that in China there are a lot of ex-Fang-lovers, they are the people who used to be Fang-lovers, but later turned into Fang-haters. The majority of these people changed their affection for Fang because that their friends or they themselves became the victims of Fang's fraudulent fraud busting, but some of them did have other reasons. The following tells the stories about the latter kind.

1. "Wage Arrears Fang Shimin," A Professional Blocker Hired by Fang

On Jan. 27, 2012, Fang attacked many Han Han's supporters, and he also announced that he opened a "new season," which meant that his attacks on Han Han entered into an academic stage. However, the biggest news on that day was a series of posts by an anonymous internet user, with a web ID "Wage arrears Fang Shimin," who claimed that he was Fang's Weibo manager in charge of blocking the Fang-haters. Here is his first post on weibo.com:

"Hi everyone, I have been the long term Weibo managing specialist for Fang Shimin (Fang Zhouzi), mainly in charge of the work of 'dragging black' [blocking other internet users], working more than 12 hours a day. The salary Fang Zhouzi offered is 0.5 Yuan per blocking; however, [the salary] has never been paid, accumulating to nearly 10 thousand Yuan as of today. Fang Zhouzi is in arrears with the wages of our managing and posting team, I hope that the internet friends could repost [our post], helping us get our wages. Thanks!"^[255]

At the beginning, many people thought that the person was trying to play a practical joke on Fang. However, in the morning of the next day, Jan. 28, 2012, he posted the image of the contract between Fang and him, with Fang's signature^[256]. What really funny happened in the evening: Fang first threaten Mr. Liu Xiaofeng who reposted the above message by saying "aren't you afraid that I'll fix you after I have fixed Luo Yonghao?"^[190], and then, about 1 hour later, Fang posted the following message:

"I asked Sina to delete the microblog which is being widely distributed by the Han's Family Army, showing the fake contract with forged signature of mine. The reply from Sina is that I couldn't demonstrate that the contract is fake, and refuses to delete it. [You] are trying to humiliate me, right? How come I myself could not verify the authenticity of the signature and the contract? I give you half an hour to issue a démenti."^[257]

Empty threat

At 20:25 on Jan. 28, 2012, Fang demanded that weibo.com should delete within 30 minutes the post showing a contract between him and an internet user who accused Fang of wage arrears. Fang's post was commented 6,559 times and forwarded 8,133 times within 54 minutes after it appeared.

Ever since Fang opened his microblog account on weibo.com, a subsidiary of sina.com, in April 2009, Fang had been treated like The King by the website, and it seemed that he had the absolute power to do anything he wanted to do on the website, including rumormongering and slandering. However, whenever his own fraud was exposed, he would immediately notify the administration of the website, or the "Old Chen," the editor-in-chief of sina.com, directly, to handle his request, which was normally to ban somebody or delete some posts. And the above post was just one of these requests made public by Fang himself. No wonder it provoked a public outcry:

"I have finally witnessed what the proverb 'The officials are allowed to set fires, the commoners are not allowed to light a lamp' means. The Hierarch does know that he can use 'himself' to testify, however, Han Han cannot use 'himself' to prove anything……"^[258]

"Ah heavens! Even Pig Fang has his day when he is unable to prove his own innocence! Here is what he posted……"^[259]

"Nonsense! According to Fang's logic, since Han Han is not qualified to demonstrate that his novels were written by himself, unqualified to demonstrate that his manuscripts are his own, how come you are able to [verify the authenticity of the signature and the contract]? Double standards again?"^[260]

For some unknown reasons, Fang's spoiled-child act didn't work this time: neither the post was deleted, nor the démenti was issued hours passed Fang's deadline, and the unthinkable thing happened: Fang finally deleted his own post, which, in his own words, is called "self-castration" (自 宫, zì gōng). It was arguably one of Fang's earliest major setbacks in the Hanly War, and foreshadowed his catastrophic ending in a few months.

The story didn't stop there. One day later, seeing that the post showing the contract was still not deleted by the webmaster, Fang posted several messages to prove his own innocence. Here is one of them:

"Anyone with a little common sense is able to tell with a glimpse that the contract was forged: first, nobody will sign a contract with his penname; second, that signature 'Fang Zhouzi' was copied from a book which I signed. Even facing such an obvious rumor, 'Weibo Rumor Refutation' [the official account of Weibo administration] still could not make a decision?"^[261]

It is obvious that one day after the allegation, Fang was still unable to provide convincing evidence to demonstrate his own innocence. The strange thing is, Fang's signature in a book signed by Fang was not provided by Fang himself, rather, it was "found" by an internet user with a fake ID "Hottie" (辣嘻嘻) who, as of January 10, 2015, has only 7 posts on his homepage, and his above "discovery" is not among them. Furthermore, Fang's first argument, no one signs a contract with his penname, was presented first by another Fang-lover with a fake ID "A Southerner in North Mountain" (北山南人)^[262]. Obviously, Fang didn't have that "common sense" before his follower told him so, therefore he was lying when he said "Anyone with a little common sense is able to tell with a glimpse that the contract was forged." The fact is, Fang could not demonstrate that the signatures on the contract and in the book are the same; and they are indeed not, as demonstrated by Mr. Wang Jiamin^[263]. The "common sense" tells us that such a contract was obviously not intended to be exposed because of its content; therefore, there is nothing wrong to sign this kind mutual agreement with a penname. In other words, Fang's stupid self-defense hurt rather than helped his credibility.

Fang's inward guiltiness was revealed more obviously in the following post:

"To follow the procedure, 'Weibo Rumor Refutation' needs 24 hours. To refute a rumor immediately, it needs Old Chen to make the decision. However, Old Chen is in a flight and cannot be reached. The rumor has existed for so long, it is meaningless to refute it anymore. Since that person claims that he shares the password to my Weibo account to do the blocking for me, just like Han Han's team shares Han Han's password to his microblog, so if he manages to demonstrate that he was indeed a member of my team, I'll give him the entire reward of the 40 million Yuan which I will get from Han Han and Fan Bingbing."^[264]

As I have told the story previously, on Jan. 22, 2012, 6 days before the above incident, Fang knowingly used a forged evidence to frame Han Han: he used a story made up by an internet user saying one of Han Han's ghostwriter confessed and he was able to logon into Han Han's blog^[265]. Further, to prevent refutation from Han Han or other people, Fang made the following argument:

"It is very convincing to demonstrate oneself to other people this way, however, if one wants to get the reward offered by Han Han, this method will not work, because, first, Han Han can change his password anytime, making the person unable to login; ……"^[266]

In other words, Fang had already known that there was no way, at least according to his own logic, that a person could not "demonstrate that he was indeed a member of my team," but he still asked that person to do so. Similarly, Fang knew that he would never get the 40 million Yuan from Mr. Han and Ms. Fan; however, he still offered the non-existent money as the reward, rather than offering his own money. In Chinese, it is called "having a guilty conscience" (心虚).

The funny things kept rolling in. Mr. Wang Zhi'an, a CCTV commentator and one of Fang's closest followers at the time, made the following comment on Fang's first post:

"Suggest Fang Zhouzi reporting to the police. If this thug forged the contract, it is public extortion."^[267]

Here is Fang's response to the suggestion by his future enemy:

"Only after studying the laws, I have learned that there is a crime called contract fraud, if the amount of the money involved is more than 5,000 Yuan, the case can be pursued. Let the police to investigate who is behind."^[268]

Till this day, Fang hasn't reported the case to the police yet.

Like Mr. Wang Zhi'an, Ms. Li Li (Muzi Mei), who was still one of Fang's most loyal female comrades at the time, tried to save Fang's face by posting the following comment on Fang's second post:

"Ha-ha ha-ha. Actually, any sensible person is able to see through the trick by a simple glimpse. [The wage for] one blocking is 0.5 Yuan, and you owe him more than 9,000 Yuan. However, the upper limit of Sina's blacklist is 1,000 people. The person who forged the contract is brainless."^[269]

Many people laughed at Ms. Li's pretended innocence or actual stupidity. For example, the person who made the first comment on her message wrote:

"Oh no, Fang Zhouzi's [upper limit of the blacklist] is at least 20,000!"^[270]

Another internet user, Ms. He Nan (web ID 易天) who would be sued by Fang's wife later, even proposed a method for Fang to prove his innocence:

"Mr. Fang Zhouzi, please upload your Sina microblog blacklist, let us take a look at your upper limit, is it okay? As the Great God of Truth, shouldn't you at least speak a sentence of truth?! Whether lied or not, the blogger 'Wage arrears Fang Shimin' does know the backstage information about your Weibo at least. Therefore, could you please tell us how many people you are able to block, whether the limit is the same as the one for other common internet users, 1,000 people?"^[271]

How did the future John Maddox Prize winner Fang respond to the proposal? He simply adopted his "last strategy" whenever his fraud is brought to light: playing dumb and pretending to be blind and deaf, or even dead.

On Jan. 31, 2012, "Wage arrears Fang Shimin" posted the online bank statement showing that Fang Zhouzi paid him 5,000 Yuan two days earlier^[272]. Fang has never made a comment on the post, and the issue was gradually forgotten by most people, as he wished.

In summary, the wage arrears incident not only confirmed the wide-spread speculation that Fang had been receiving special treatment by weibo.com, but also showed that Fang was intentionally using a defamatory tactics to smear Han Han and he knew the fact that Han Han had no way to prove his innocence under his malicious attack. However, the authenticity of the contract has never been clarified.

Being chased down

Fang Zhouzi and his follower Du Lei were followed by the “Wage Arrears Fang Shimin” who claimed that he had worked for Fang for about one year and Fang owed him unpaid salary about 10,000 Yuan. The above image is the screenshots of that person’s posts under Fang’s comment on Kai-Fu Lee’s “attempting to jump” (2012-1-27 17:14) and under Lee’s original post (2012-1-26 23:22).

Settlement

At 2012-1-31 05:52, the “Wage Arrears Fang Shimin” posted the above evidence showing that he received 5,000 Yuan payment from Shimin Fang on Jan. 29, 2012. Fang has neither confirmed nor denied the news. The post still exists.

The king of internet water army was choked by his own water

On Jan. 31, 2012, in a time span of 10 minutes, the “Wage Arrears Fang Shimin” posted 30 comments on one of Fang’s denial posts. Please note that the web ID of that person is still active, indicating the administration of weibo.com doesn’t believe it to be a malicious account. Also, Fang didn’t delete these posts, suggesting that Fang was shorthanded at the time.

2. “Shi Jing Fei,” A Fraud Software Designer Hired by Fang

Fang’s water army tactics were so rudimentary that almost everybody could tell when the army was in action. However, under the protection of weibo.com, it was difficult for outsiders to obtain solid evidence to demonstrate that the water army was indeed organized or employed by Fang or his top associates. Fortunately, sometimes such evidences would pop up just like the above example.

On April 20, 2012, an internet user who calls himself “Shi Jing Fei” (十井飞) posted an article on tianya.cn, entitled: Exposure: I’m the Person Who Developed a Weibo Fraud Software for Fang Zhouzi’s Team. Here is its beginning:

“Disclaimer: I used to be a Fang-fan, and now I’m neither a Fang-fan nor a Han-fan. I like Han Han’s articles, and Fang’s fights against fraud before were also delightful. I am only telling what I know. After posting this article, I'll do the things I'm supposed to do; I won't answer any questions from anybody.

"What I want to tell you are:

"1. The number of pro-Fang people is very small; the majority of the 'massive presence' of Fang's army on weibo.com was archived by software;

"2. When you @ a Fang-fan under Han Han's posts, the responses you got sometimes by the Fang-fan were generated automatically, by a robot;

"3. If you find an account which has no avatar, few posts, few fans, and it mainly reposts the contents from Fang's group, the accounts with these characteristics were all registered with this software. Because the function for uploading an avatar has not matured, the failure rate was high. Only a few [such accounts] have an avatar, or they were uploaded manually later.

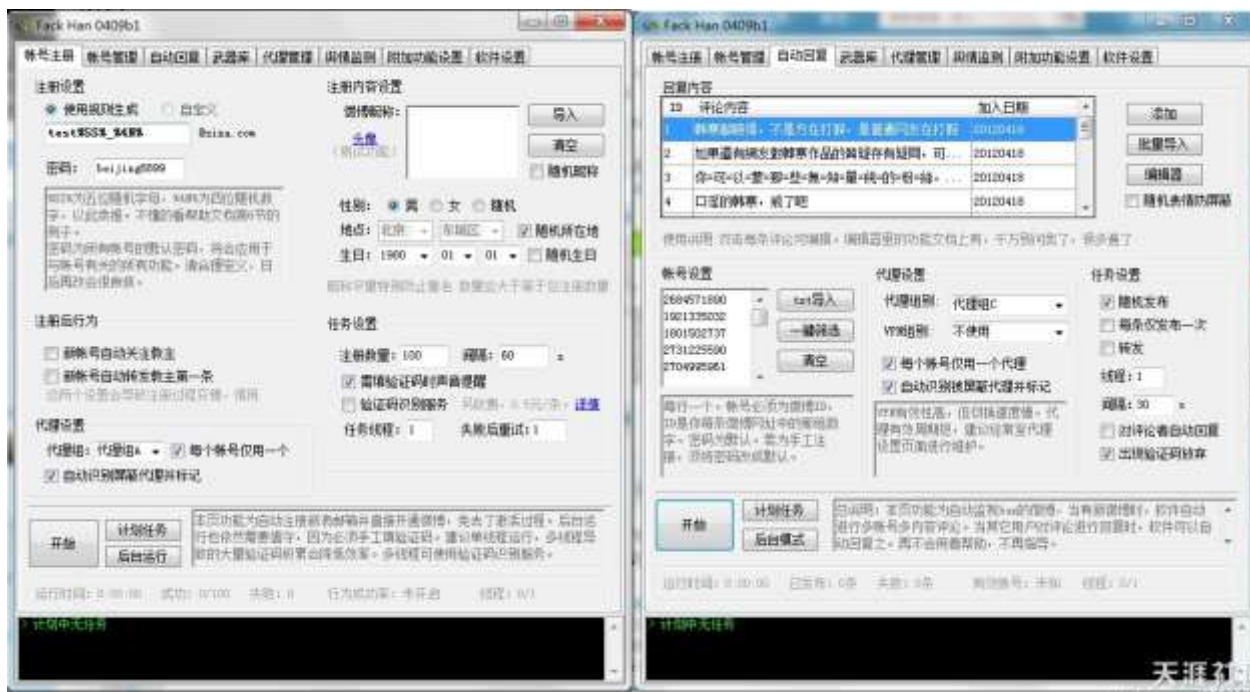

"4. The software was developed for them by me the idiot. Now, I quit!!"^[273]

According to this "Shi Jing Fei," he got to know a Mr. Liang on a forum because he scolded Han Han frequently. Later, this Liang told him that he belonged to Fang's camp, and asked him to develop software which could be used in Fang's fight against Han Han. The required software should have the following functions^[274]:

1. Register accounts in batches; every step should be performed automatically, except for entering the verification codes;
2. Generate comments on Han Han's posts automatically, and if someone respond to the comments, the software should be able to respond back with pre-determined sentences;
3. One person should be able to control many such accounts, which should be able to follow a predetermined person simultaneously, to make comments, and to repost;
4. Capable of acquiring many IPs to break Sina's anti-spam mechanism.

According to "Shi Jing Fei," Mr. Liang was extremely generous, promising him that once he developed the required software, he won't need to work for three years. And it seems that the person was satisfied with the payments. The software was finally run by about 50 accounts on weibo.com, and their prowess was increased by several hundred folds.

So, why did this guy want to reveal the secret? He said there were many reasons; however, he mentioned only one: he found that Mr. Liang tried to steal the source code from him.

The robotic weapon used by Fangangers in the Hanly War

The above images are the interface of the fraud software posted by its developer, allegedly commissioned by Fang Zhouzi or one of his top associates.

The person did admit that he doesn't have direct evidence to show the connection between Mr. Liang and Fang Zhouzi. So, was Fang involved in the scheme? What was his response to the allegation?

A little more than two hours after the article by "Shi Jing Fei" was posted on tianya.cn, it was reposted on weibo.com^[275]. With the help from the big Weibo users such as Mr. Luo Yonghao, who used Fang's method of spreading rumors or leveling allegations by asking "Is it real?"^[276], it became one of the hottest posts of the day on the website, being reposted for nearly 3 thousand times in 24 hours, and more than 4 thousand times in total; the question "Is it real?" was asked for more than 2 thousand times - 2,247 times to be exact; and Fang Zhouzi was directly notified of the existence of the article, and asked for a comment, for more than 4 hundred times - 472 times to be exact. Here are some of the comments:

"As expected, sina.com won't bother to take care of the matter. The only way to solve the problem is to require the registrants to use their true names, and after that these water armies will be dead immediately once they are exposed to light, and Fang Zhouzi's status as the Hierarch of the Internet will also be shaken.Ask Mr. Fang again: Do you think you have been really helped by these water army zombies who can only repeat the dirty words to attack and curse Han Han's supporters? Will we retreat because of being cursed or know your nature better?"^[277]

"It is the time for common knowledge popularization! What kind of person is Fang Zhouzi? 1. Nominally a fraud fighter, actually the king of fraud; 2. Nominally a fund for fraud fighting and personal safety, actually the fund for purchasing water army; 3. Nominally fighting against crimes, actually causing insurrections; 4. Nominally reasonable questioning, actually rumormongering and framing; 5. Nominally being obsessed with truth, actually covering truth up. Please teach me every righteous person: should a thug like Fang Zhouzi be eliminated?"^[278]

“There is absolutely no doubt that Fang Zhouzi has sockpuppets and water armies. I have not only experienced several times that these sockpuppets came to my microblog to curse and scold, I have also saved the evidence of large scale public relation campaigns by these sockpuppets. However, I didn't know they used this kind of method until now.”^[279]

“I have checked some of the people who have been cited by Fang Zhouzi, and [they] are indeed water armies, their registration date is recent, the number of fans is from several to a few dozens. All of their posts are supportive of Fang Zhouzi, and their followers support Fang Zhouzi entirely, and they change their IDs frequently.”^[280]

“It explains why whenever Fang Zhouzi's water army came to my microblog they came all of sudden like a flood, and after finishing their curses they retreated altogether. I incline to believe it is real.”^[281]

Guess what was the John Maddox Prize winner's response? He adopted an upgraded version of “the last strategy of the imposters whenever their frauds are brought to light”: he pretended to be blind and dumb on the first day, and on the second day, he escaped from the scene by making the following announcement:

“I am on the road to a place without internet access and cell phone signal. If I don't post on weibo.com in the next one or two days, it is not because I am arrested by Xiao's Court of Law in Wuhan.”^[282]

Yes, till this day, nearly 3 years later, people are still waiting for the John Maddox Prize winner to “prove his own innocence” on that matter, and I guarantee you that he will never do that, despite the fact that he will keep asking other people to prove their innocence till the day of his death.

以为得计。逻辑能力有何用？也不能将一只鼯鼠证明成一个人。鲁迅早说了：有缺点的战士终究是战士，完美的苍蝇也终究不过是苍蝇。韩寒的小说才华在他们这一代人中，显然称不上卓越；对于民主、自由的见识，也不及微博上的李承鹏、王小山。但他面对公共事件畅所欲言的勇气，在整个中国罕有其匹。尤其 2011 年岁尾的韩三篇，几乎是一潭死水里扔下的石子，激起了一片回声。尽管我不完全赞成他的说法，但我由衷佩服这样的勇气。要是中国知识分子都有这样的勇气，这个国家会让人尊敬；要是 80 后孩子都有这样的勇气，这个国家就有未来。”(何三坡：《方舟子：一只转基因鼯鼠》，燕山何三坡，2012-01-26 16:36:00。Also see: 2012-1-27 16:22.)

[261] Original Chinese: “只要有点常识的人，就能一眼看出那份合同是伪造的：第一，没有人会用笔名签署合同。第二，那个‘方舟子’签名是从我的一本书的签名本的签名扒下来的。面对如此明显的谣言，@微博辟谣居然不能做主？” (See: 2012-1-28 21:13.)

[262] Original Chinese: “质疑要证据，关于有网友曝 @方舟子 欠薪拿出的那份聘用协议，我将方舟子签名处放大 1000 倍后没有看到明显的 PS 痕迹，因为打印的文本比较容易伪造，但后期要再加个签名上去而不留痕迹难度不小。另外，用网上方舟子签名叠对比后，如图所示。所以这份方舟子雇网络微博枪手的协议是真是假，大家自行判断。” (See: 2012-1-28 19:27.)
